Storm Leaves Death, Damage

North Is Snowbound As California Basks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The center of the first major storm of the new year moved out of the United States and into Canada today, leaving in its wake a great mass of snow that caused many deaths and widespread destruction.

Temperatures moderated from the sub-zero and zero readings early in the weekend to the teens and 20s. In Minnesota temperatures still hovered around zero in a new snowfall.

Of the dead attributed to the weather, Wisconsin had 15 of which 12 died because of over-exertion. New England had six dead.

An enviable contrast to the winter over most of the country was Southern California's heat wave. Thousands swarmed to resorts and beaches as temperatures soared. In the South Bay area of Los Angeles, 15 swimmers were rescued by lifeguards.

The unofficial reading Sunday at Palm Springs and Oasis was 93. In the San Fernando Valley it was 96.

Los Angeles had a record 86 degrees—the warmest Jan. 7 in 59 years.

Warm weather and rain sent rivers over their banks in western Washington State. Heavy, wet snow fell over northeastern Washington, causing some damage to property and utility lines.

Between 2 and 6 inches of new snow fell over parts of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, but temperatures ranged mostly in the 20s. Snowslides caused some trouble in the Colorado mountains and in Utah.

Icy roads remained a problem in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. The three states lay in the path of a weekend storm that dumped up to 14 inches of snow. Some sections had drifts up to three feet.

In the east, tornado-like winds, heavy rain and sleet caused wide damage and several deaths. Power failures and telephone service cuts were reported in several areas in New York State.

Advanced Echo Satellite Planned

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)

—An attempt will be made this week to inflate a giant space sphere high above the Bahama Islands after it has been rocketed aloft folded in the nose of a Thor missile.

The experiment is to try out techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite. The inflation of the 13-story tall balloon could provide a brilliant dawn show for residents on the east coast of Florida, southern Georgia and the Bahamas.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said weather conditions might permit observation throughout the eastern United States when the big ball reaches its highest intended altitude of 950 miles.

U.S. Solons Get Briefing On World Trouble Spots

Clay, JFK Agree On Berlin Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy says he and Gen. Lucius D. Clay are in full agreement on how to handle effectively any possible future crisis in Berlin.

The President's statement was issued Sunday after he and Clay, who is Kennedy's personal representative in West Berlin, had talked for an hour at the White House.

Clay came to Washington for talks with the President and Secretary of State Dean Rusk amid reports he believed the U.S. commander in West Berlin, Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, should have greater authority to handle unexpected emergencies.

The statement read to reporters by White House press secretary Pierre Salinger after Sunday's Kennedy-Clay meeting apparently sought to dispel any idea of a deep rift within the administration over the handling of any future emergencies in Berlin.

The statement by the chief executive said: "General Clay and I have had a most useful and satisfactory review of the current situation in Berlin and Germany. I have been very glad to get his report of the continuing staunchness of the people of West Berlin and we have talked at length about the ways and means of sustaining and strengthening the life of their great city in the future as in the past."

"We have also reviewed the general problem of effective handling of possible crisis situations and we have reached full agreement on the policy to be followed during these months."

"This meeting is one more way in which Mr. Rusk, General Clay and I can keep in the closest touch and we continue to be fortunate in having him as the senior American in Berlin."

Salinger was asked if the statement meant Clay was fully satisfied with the situation regarding authority for the U.S. military commander. Salinger replied that Clay had read the President's statement and approved it.

The Berlin situation was one of the subjects touched on by Rusk in a radio interview program — "Reporters Roundup" — MBS.

Despite new talks between U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, the Berlin question remains "a potentially dangerous issue," Rusk said.

Rusk said French President Charles de Gaulle did not object to the exploratory talks in Moscow. However, Rusk said, De Gaulle "has some very considerable reluctance about engaging in formal negotiations until it is quite clear that there is an adequate basis for such negotiations."

In a speech Saturday night at Columbus, Ohio, Kennedy was optimistic about the course of the East-West struggle.

Kennedy said the Western alliance was gaining strength while the Communist bloc had begun to crack. East Germany, Poland and Hungary have been forced to stick with the Communist front, but Red China and Albania have started to move away, Kennedy said.

87 Persons Die In Dutch Crash

2 Passenger Trains Collide in Dense Fog

WOERDEN, Netherlands (AP) — Two jammed passenger trains collided in dense fog near Woerden today and Netherlands Railways announced that 87 persons perished. It was the worst train disaster in this country's history.

The Dutch News Agency reported earlier that 50 persons had been injured but a farmer's wife living near the disaster scene said ambulances had streamed away carrying at least 200 injured to nearby hospitals.

The trains carried some 500 passengers, a spokesman for the Dutch railways said. Fifty doctors were reported working at the wreck scene.

The trains collided on the track between Utrecht and Rotterdam. One train was en route from Rotterdam to Amsterdam, the other from Leeuwarden, in North Holland, to Rotterdam.

"At a quarter past nine we heard an enormous bang," said the farmer's wife, Mrs. Van Oosterom. "We could see nothing in the dense fog. First we thought a plane had crashed but later we heard iron grating and realized that two trains had crashed at the nearby shunt of the tracks to Utrecht and Amsterdam."

"Almost immediately afterward crying people came stumbling from the Breudijk embankment towards our farm."

Mrs. De Groot, another farmer's wife, said that when she arrived some 10 minutes after the crash, bodies were scattered at the foot of the embankment.

The dead were carried away in buses. Officials at the spot speculated that in the dense fog one of the engine drivers may not have noticed an "unsafe" signal.

Three coaches of the train coming from Rotterdam were derailed and six coaches of the other express.

The worst previous Dutch train wreck was in 1918, when 38 persons were killed at Weesp, 12 miles east of Amsterdam.

Bipartisan Talks Last For 2 Hours

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy canvassed world trouble spots with congressional leaders of both parties at a two-hour White House conference today.

Republicans and Democrats who came out of a breakfast meeting held in the Cabinet room said there was a full discussion of international affairs.

The President turned over to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert T. McNamara and John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, the task of bringing the leaders up to date on world developments in their field.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, said the briefing touched on all of the trouble spots in the world.

He said there was no discussion of domestic issues, except for mention of the President's intention to ask for broad authority to negotiate tariffs.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate GOP leader, said that there was only broad discussion of international problems and very little questioning from the Congress members.

Kennedy has scheduled a breakfast meeting Tuesday with Democratic leaders of the Senate and House at which time he is expected to go into details about his legislative program.

Saltonstall said the President made no request for bipartisan support of his forthcoming program but limited his discussion today primarily to international matters.

The all-Democratic meeting Tuesday is likely to be devoted to the more controversial items which the administration hopes to develop as major political issues in this congressional election year.

These include the bitterly disputed health care program financed under the Social Security System, and a variety of education bills.

Once Around Roundtown

THE CORRESPONDENCE between Pickaway Countians and Canadian residents of the New Brunswick area will probably continue indefinitely as a result of two notes found in Christmas trees here prior to the holiday season...

The most recent message was to Mrs. Richard Ballard of Tarleton. She received a note of thanks from a 12-year-old girl expressing her appreciation for a bracelet sent to her by the Tarleton resident.

If the notes found in the trees serve no other purpose — they have originated several "pen pals" which will probably develop into regular correspondence between the Roundtown area and Canada.

SURELY AS the snow cometh, so do serious warnings for safe, cautious driving from local traffic and safety experts. The highway department headquarters here reported primary roads 23 and 22 in "clear and wet" condition at 1 p. m. today with secondary routes snow-covered and icy in spots.

Officials said crews have cleared and salted all state routes in the area. The State Highway Patrol urged lower speeds, particularly in passing lanes on Route 23 and on less-travelled roads.

County Engineer Henry T. McCrady stated county road are in relative "good" condition. Ice spots are present, though.

More snow flurries and continuing chilling temperatures and wind are forecast for the central Ohio area today, tonight and tomorrow.

SPEAKING OF Engineer McCrady, one Courthouse visitor commented with favor on the county official's bright-red sweater.

"I'm not wearing it for looks," McCrady admitted. "But it sure keeps me warm out on those cold roads."

Sukarno Escapes Bomb Explosion

MAKASSAR, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno escaped unharmed from a bomb explosion Sunday night while winding up a four-day barnstorming tour to whip up support in the Celebes for his plans to seize West New Guinea from the Dutch.

The bomb killed three persons and injured 25 others in a crowd watching the president arrive for a speech. It exploded a few hundred yards behind his motorcade. Visibly shaken, he addressed a student rally shortly afterward. This morning he inspected a military base outside this South Celebes city.

There were no indications of any arrests but military precautions and security were strengthened in Makassar, the probable jumping-off point for any invasion of Dutch New Guinea.

Until recently, the Makassar area also was a center of rebels opposing Sukarno's government.

The president attacked Dutch Foreign Minister J. M. A. H. Luns for his statement in a magazine interview recently that West

New Guinea's Papuan population should not come under Indonesian domination because they are racially different from the Indonesians.

"The Papuan people of West Irian (West New Guinea) are part of the Indonesian race. A desire by people to live together creates a nation. Indonesia is of many peoples and the West Irian people are part of it," Sukarno said.

Sukarno attacked Luns' statements that the Papuans are so uncivilized they need Dutch support and training, and that the Netherlands had put more into its colonies than it had taken from them.

Reinforcements poured into the South Celebes as Sukarno toured the area. A source close to the president said guerrilla "volunteers" are expected to begin hit-and-run attacks soon in West New Guinea, which Indonesia has claimed ever since the nation gained independence from the Netherlands in 1949.

In a speech at the fishing village of Bonthian, Sukarno told a crowd Indonesian will invade the territory unless the Dutch hand it over and "we don't care about world opinion."

However, he said his policy has the support of the Communist, Asian and African world. "Two billion people support us," he said. "How many people support Holland?"

Nine foreign ambassadors, including U.S. Ambassador Howard P. Jones, were in Sukarno's party.

GOP Expects Congress Gains

Dems Dispute Brown's Optimistic Outlook

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Republicans, who carried the state handsily in the 1960 presidential election, are laying claim to additional House seats in this year's election.

But the Democrats aren't conceding anything, except possibly the new congressman-at-large seat for which the GOP contender likely will be Robert Taft Jr.

"We'll pick up two to four seats," predicts Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Blanchester, dean of the state's 16-member GOP group in the House. He includes the at-large race in his figuring.

But Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Youngstown, senior member of the state's seven Democratic congressmen, says confidently: "Every Democrat is going to keep his seat."

Kirwan isn't overly optimistic about his party's chances of beating Taft in the state-wide race but, on the other hand, Republican spokesmen see little hope of finding an opponent who can defeat Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, who is up for reelection.

Brown says Taft's election and that of Oliver P. Bolton in the 11th District are almost sure bets for the GOP. Bolton, son of Rep. Frances P. Bolton, R-Ohio, will seek to regain his old seat from Rep. Robert E. Cook, D - Ohio. Bolton dropped out of politics because of illness in 1956 after two terms in the House.

Brown, active in Ohio politics for 43 years, says Republican gains in Ohio will come as part of a national conservative surge.

But Kirwan, declaring it's too early for political forecasts, says "the Republicans won't run away with it."

The GOP predicted gains all through the two administration's of President Eisenhower but "we kept picking up seats," Kirwan added.

Brown will be seeking his 13th term in the House this year, Kirwan his 14th.

Pet Lion Owner Given Ultimatum

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP) — There'll be no lion in the streets in Plainfield, even if the beast really is just the playful pup its owner claims it to be.

James Trimble has been given a week to get his pet lioness, Moira, out of town. A court order issued by Magistrate Warren J. Lynch ruled that the presence of Moira, 10 months old and 100 pounds, doesn't square with the Plainfield zoning code.

Trimble, 31 has been housing Moira in the cellar of his home, but he lets her out in the back yards for an occasional gambol. Neighbors began getting edgy.

16 Indictments Are Returned By Grand Jury

Pickaway County's Grand Jury, meeting Friday for its January term, returned 16 true bills of indictment, ignored five others and made two major recommendations on improvements in the county's law operations structure.

Set to appear before Judge Ammer 10 a. m. Wednesday in Common Pleas Court for arraignment after being indicted are:

Franklin Vandagriff for breaking and entering a building at night and grand larceny; Ronald Lee Keaton, breaking and entering an uninhabited building at night; Reece Davis, possession of concealed weapons; Marvin Crumley, Edith Marie Jordan and Ethel May Blankenship, for issuing checks without having bank accounts upon which to draw;

Kenneth Bentley, breaking and entering at night; James L. Roberts, breaking and entering an inhabited dwelling at night; Gilbert Jones, forgery; and William H. Davis, non support.

THE GRAND JURY also returned five indictments "in secret" until persons named in them are apprehended. Five indictments sought by County Prosecutor Robert H. Huffer but ignored by the investigative panel were:

Jennie L. Grabill and Dewey Whitten Conley for second degree manslaughter; Ralph Hyer and Howard B. Davis, for non-support; and James Mathney for one incident of assault upon a minor.

Jurors recommended employment of an official probation officer for Common Pleas Court. After inspecting the county jail the Grand Jury reported satisfaction with its operations, but recommended installation of a dumb waiter to facilitate food service in the three-story building.

The unofficial reading Sunday at Palm Springs and Oasis was 93. In the San Fernando Valley it was 96.

Los Angeles had a record 86 degrees—the warmest Jan. 7 in 59 years.

Warm weather and rain sent rivers over their banks in western Washington State. Heavy, wet snow fell over northeastern Washington, causing some damage to property and utility lines.

Between 2 and 6 inches of new snow fell over parts of Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, but temperatures ranged mostly in the 20s. Snowfalls caused some trouble in the Colorado mountains and in Utah.

Icy roads remained a problem in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa. The three states lay in the path of a weekend storm that dumped up to 14 inches of snow. Some sections had drifts up to three feet.

In the east, tornado-like winds, heavy rain and sleet caused wide damage and several deaths. Power failures and telephone service cuts were reported in several areas in New York State.

Advanced Echo Satellite Planned

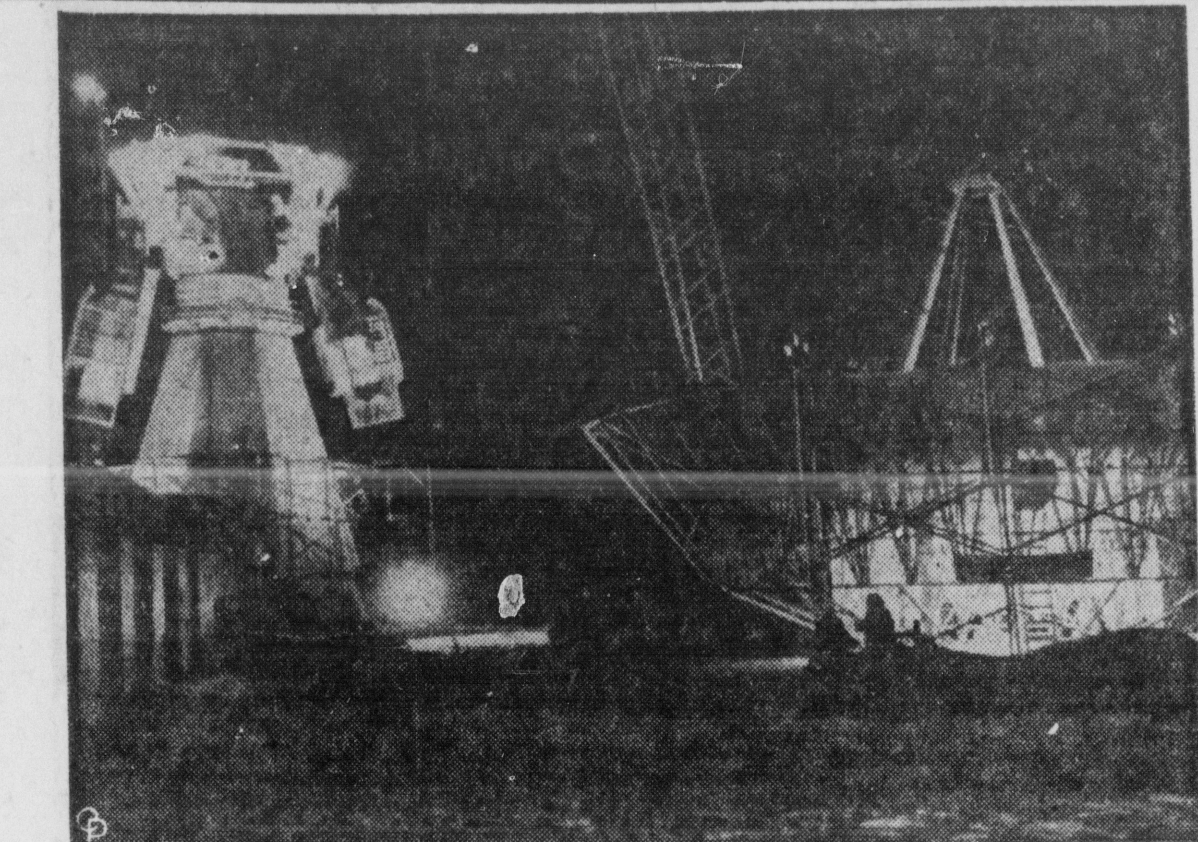

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An attempt will be made this week to inflate a giant space sphere high above the Bahama Islands after it has been rocketed aloft folded in the nose of a Thor missile.

The experiment is to try out techniques for launching an advanced Echo communications satellite. The inflation of the 13-story tall balloon could provide a brilliant dawn show for residents on the east coast of Florida, southern Georgia and the Bahamas.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said weather conditions might permit observation throughout the eastern United States when the big ball reaches its highest intended altitude of 950 miles.

JFK Praises DiSalle, but Ohio Political Picture Muddled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — President Kennedy came to Ohio Saturday night making no bones about it that he was appearing as head of the Democratic Party. And he left no doubt that he admires Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle and his work.

That's as far as things got in clearing up the political muddle which got under way Oct. 20 when DiSalle, frustrated by a Republican-controlled legislature, announced he would not seek a second four-year term so he could fight for his programs "unencumbered by a candidacy."

Some politicians and political observers had expressed belief in advance of the $100-a-plate fundraising dinner in honor of DiSalle's 54th birthday that Kennedy might come up with a forthright plea that DiSalle change his mind and run again.

The President, it turned out, was a bit more subtle.

He praised DiSalle for being the first big-state governor to jump on the Kennedy bandwagon as early as Jan. 5, 1959.

Then he spoke with assurance of his belief that Ohio, this year, will elect a Democratic governor, re-elect Democratic Sen. Frank J. Lausche and Democratic congressmen "who stand for progress in Ohio and in the nation."

Much of DiSalle's frustration with the GOP legislature has been over differences of opinion on spending levels for various welfare and mental health programs. The President chose the field of mental retardation to illustrate that his programs and DiSalle's are largely identical.

"The work that he (DiSalle) has done in one field alone in mental retardation is indicative of his concern and what must be the

Laos Princes May Convene New Parley

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — U.S. and other diplomatic sources said today they expect Premier Prince Boun Oum to accept an invitation to meet again with Laos' two other political princes in Geneva.

The rightist premier met with his Cabinet to consider the invitation from the 14-nation Geneva conference, which is trying to neutralize the Southeast Asia kingdom.

Information Minister Bouvann Norasing told newsmen no decision on the invitation was taken and another Cabinet meeting will be held Tuesday.

Boun Oum and seven of his Cabinet flew to the royal capital of Luang Prabang to confer with King Savang Vathana.

Boun Oum must get approval to leave the country from King Savang Vathana. Informed Lao sources said there was some doubt he would authorize the trip. The king is a known critic of the Geneva conference.

Britain and the Soviet Union, as co-chairmen of the conference, called on Boun Oum, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong to make another attempt to work out the distribution of posts in a coalition government.

The United States joined in the appeal, which warned the princes that their failure to form a coalition government would wreck the conference's efforts to bring peace to Laos.

Though hopes were high for another meeting of the princes, there was little optimism among diplomatic circles that anything would come of it.

A Civil Defense spokesman said "The Shelter Survey is not only essential as a national program, but it is important to the country and its component political subdivisions."

Diplomatic Colony Startled As Molotov Is Given Old Job

MOSCOW (AP) — Ex-Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, denounced as a Stalinist by the latest Communist party congress, is returning to his atom for peace post in Vienna, the Foreign Office announced today.

The announcement startled the diplomatic colony in the Soviet capital and led to speculation that Stalin's old lieutenant may have won his battle against expulsion from the party.

One of the leaders of the futile putsch against Premier Khrushchev in 1957, Molotov at 71 was seen headed for oblivion after his recall in November from his job as head of the Soviet delegation to the International Atomic Energy Agency.

Molotov and other prominent figures under Stalin were on trial by the party, and expulsion generally had been expected. He was never seen in public after his return Nov. 12 and the press continued to denounce him.

Khrushchev was asked about Molotov only two weeks ago and told reporters the party machinery was dealing with the case.

A Foreign Office spokesman said he knew nothing of the status of the party trial.

"Molotov has never been removed from his post on the atomic energy agency and has now returned to it," he said.

The spokesman said Molotov left Saturday. That would mean he should arrive in Vienna some time today, traveling by train.

The Austrian Embassy said Molotov had not applied for an Austrian visa but that one issued in Vienna might still be valid.

It was the first time that anything like this had happened in a Soviet leader has been faced with such serious accusations he is not allowed to leave the country.

Diplomats and others had expected Molotov and other associates would suffer degradation after the attack in the party congress last October.

Molotov had attempted to fight back against the charges by sending a letter to members of the Central Committee just before the congress opened last Oct. 15. The letter was not published in full although extracts were read.

But speaker after speaker at the congress accused him and his confederates of responsibility for hundreds of deaths among the thousands of army and party leaders caught in Stalin's purges. The purges began in the 1930s and continued through and after World War II.

After his denunciation at the party congress, Molotov and two other former Soviet leaders were ordered put on trial before the party for leading the anti-party group against Khrushchev in 1957. The other two are ex-Premier Georgi Malenkov and ex-Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich.

Heavy Snow Seen Aid to Cattle Drive

WINNER, S.D. (AP)—A swirling snowstorm that brewed a temporary feed crisis for Don Hight's cattle drive turned out to have its helpful side.

"It'll cover all the winter wheat we have to travel across," Hight said as he headed his 1,800 Herefords for the final 17 miles of a 65-mile walk to a cattle auction house at Winner.

Much of the remaining distance is in more settled country than the cattle range where the animals grazed before heading to market.

They are hoofing across numerous farms and Hight had to agree to keep them along fence lines to avoid plowing through more wheat than is necessary.

At times, the herd has stretched out a mile and a half. The 40-year-old rancher lets the cows set their own pace.

Hight expects to have the cattle in pens at the sales ring Tuesday night. He'll separate the cows and steers, the steers to go by the pound and the cows by the head when the auctioneer's cry rings out Thursday.

His main worry now, Hight says, is shrinkage. He expects to save $2,000 by trail-driving the beef as against the normal method of trucking them, and expects to pocket around $360,000 at the sale.

10-Nation Plan To Set Up $6 Billion Currency Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 10-power agreement to bolster the stability of the dollar and other moneys of non-Communist nations through a $6-billion currency pool was announced today by the International Monetary Fund.

Subject to ratification by Congress and the other parliaments, the pool will give the IMF a huge reserve from which any of the 10 nations may draw to meet temporary and unusual drains on their gold and foreign exchange reserves.

The United States was the foremost sponsor of the plan and would be a major beneficiary if the dollar should again come under such speculative attack as took place in 1960.

The agreement calls on the 10 participating nations to pledge to the IMF—but not to put up in cash until and unless some of the funds are needed—these amounts in dollars:

United States, two billion; Britain, one billion; Germany one billion; France, 550 million; Italy, 550 million; Japan, 250 million; Canada, 200 million; Netherlands, 200 million; Belgium, 150 million; Sweden, 100 million.

The agreement represents the third and next to the last step in a plan to provide, through the IMF, international borrowing arrangements which — in IMF's words—"should make it possible to mobilize quickly large additional resources in defense of the international monetary system."

The U.S. Treasury, in a simultaneous announcement, said: "The borrowing arrangement could be of great assistance to the United States, as well as to any of the other participating countries, in meeting temporary balance-of-payment difficulties."

The final step will come when at least seven of the countries, whose pledges total not less than $5.5 billion, notify the IMF of their adherence to the pact. The supplemental fund then will be ready for use.

If one of the countries finds itself in payment difficulties which cannot be handled through the usual IMF procedures, the fund will borrow the needed currencies from members of the new pool. IMF then would re-lend the money to the country in trouble.

The terms and conditions announced today contain no provision for a veto by any single country on the use of its currency. Officials here had worried for a time that France might insist on such a provision.

Although nothing like a veto appears, the agreement seems to contain ample assurance that no country would be obliged to lend its currency if the loan would threaten financial difficulties for the lender.

Although the IMF already has available nearly $3 billion in its gold account and $6.5 billion in the currencies of major industrial countries, it was explained some of these funds might not be available if one or more of the nations were undergoing balance-of-payments difficulties. The new pool makes additional resources available for emergency use.

Irish Gene Robinson was placed on probation for three years for issuing checks without having an account.

Confusion Veils Airliner Landing In Soviet Area

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A Belgian Sabena jet airliner, carrying 27 persons from Tehran to Istanbul, landed at a Soviet airfield today after radioing "We are being pursued by Russian planes."

Sabena authorities in Istanbul and in Brussels, the line's headquarters, said the plane was forced by Soviet jets to put down at the city of Yerevan, near the Soviet-Turkish frontier.

However, the line's manager in Tehran, Walter Devros, said a radio compass had failed and the pilot, Cmdr. Freddy Moureau, requested permission to make the landing.

By Devros' account, the Soviet craft merely escorted the liner to Yerevan. He said plans are for it to proceed to Istanbul, 850 miles west of Yerevan, as soon as repairs are completed.

Democratic congressional leaders have made it clear they expect a big furor over the reciprocal trade bill. They predict a satisfactory measure will be passed.

They are scratching their heads over what they expect to be the biggest problems of the 1962 session—the health care bill and the grade and high school grant measure.

A check indicates the votes are not available to get the health care legislation out of the House Ways and Means Committee, its first congressional hurdle.

Congress will convene at noon Wednesday, but no floor action of any kind will come before next week. Kennedy plans to deliver his State of the Union message in person to a joint session on Thursday.

These include the $2.67-billion college aid bill with funds for classroom loans, student scholarships and junior colleges; a pension-welfare fund regulatory bill; a bill to broaden the National Defense Education Act with loan funds for church school classroom construction for specified subjects; legislation to set up a department of urban affairs; a measure to establish a 150,000-member youth conservation corps; and an aid bill for cold war veterans.

A Shadeville motorist arrested twice for driving without an operator's license headed the weekend list of traffic cases in Circleville Municipal Court.

Cited was Thurman Ramey Jr., 22. He was arrested once by city police and once by the State Highway Patrol, both times for having no driver's license.

Ramey was fined $50 and costs on one charge, then was handed a penalty of $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail for the second count. The jail term was suspended and the violator was placed on probation for one year.

Other arrests by the State Highway Patrol, most of them for speeding, were:

Kenneth D. Floyd, 32, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Ellis B. Harrison, 33, Columbus; each fined $20 and costs for speeding at 80 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Delmar R. Green, 20, Burgoon, O., and Paul R. Brigner, 29, Columbus; each fined $20 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

James A. Small, 33, Columbus, Daniel J. Gaither, 23, Alexandria, Ind., and Lee A. Dillon, 41, West Huntington, W. Va.; each fined $15 and costs for speeding at 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Willard R. Lawhorn, 23, Columbus, Gary A. Albright, 23, Columbus, and James G. Circle, 33, New Haven, W. Va.; each fined $15 and costs for speeding at 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Jessie M. Harper, 40, Columbus, and Carl R. Burgoon, 38, of 203 Logan St.; each fined $10 and costs for speeding at 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Carroll E. Whitten, 23, Route 2, Williamsport, and Robert H. Laughlin, 26, Columbus; each fined $10 and costs for speeding at 60 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Floyd Simpson, 40, Cincinnati, forfeited a $39 bond on a charge of reckless operation. He was arrested by the sheriff's department.

Heavy Snow Seen Aid to Cattle Drive

WINNER, S.D. (AP)—A swirling snowstorm that brewed a temporary feed crisis for Don Hight's cattle drive turned out to have its helpful side.

"It'll cover all the winter wheat we have to travel across," Hight said as he readied his 1,800 Herefords for the final 17 miles of a 65-mile walk to a cattle auction house at Winner.

Much of the remaining distance is in more settled country than the cattle range where the animals grazed before heading to market.

They are hoofing across numerous farms and Hight had to agree to keep them along fence lines to avoid plowing through more wheat than is necessary.

At times, the herd has stretched out a mile and a half. The 40-year-old rancher lets the cows set their own pace.

Hight expects to have the cattle in pens at the sales ring Tuesday night. He'll separate the cows and steers, the steers to go by the pound and the cows by the head when the auctioneer's cry rings out Thursday.

His main worry now, Hight says, is shrinkage. He expects to save $2,000 by trail-driving the beef as against the normal method of trucking them, and expects to pocket around $360,000 at the sale.

Beagle Is Missing
Kirth Johnson, 364 Walnut St., told local police yesterday a 2-year-old Beagle dog was taken from the rear of his home. The owner described the canine as being black and tan.

Irlan Gene Robinson was placed on probation for three years for issuing checks without having an account.

Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer has ordered two men to Lima State Hospital for observation and examination and placed a third on long-term probation.

Sent to the Lima institution for 60 days prior to sentencing were Frank Litchfield, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a uninhabited building at night and James Edward White, a probation violator.

Mr. Earl C. (Cum) Robinson, 53, of 130 S. Scioto St., died 7 p. m. Saturday at his home.

He was born June 25, 1908, at Sistrerville, W. Va., the son of C. B. and Cora Carpenter Robinson.

Mr. Robinson was a veteran of World War II.

Survivors are two sisters, Mrs. Mabel L. Hariston, of Akron, and Miss Dorothy F. Robinson of Columbus and one brother, Dick H. Robinson, 103 Reber Ave.

Services will be 10:30 a. m. tomorrow in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Henry Walters officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home.

10-Nation Plan To Set Up $6 Billion Currency Pool

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 10-power agreement to bolster the stability of the dollar and other moneys of non-Communist nations through a $6-billion currency pool was announced today by the International Monetary Fund.

Subject to ratification by Congress and the other parliaments, the pool will give the IMF a huge reserve from which any of the 10 nations may draw to meet temporary and unusual drains on their gold and foreign exchange reserves.

The United States was the foremost sponsor of the plan and would be a major beneficiary if the dollar should again come under such speculative attack as took place in 1960.

The agreement calls on the 10 participating nations to pledge to the IMF—but not to put up in cash until and unless some of the funds are needed—these amounts in dollars:

United States, two billion; Britain, one billion; Germany one billion; France, 550 million; Italy, 550 million; Japan, 250 million; Canada, 200 million; Netherlands, 200 million; Belgium, 150 million; Sweden, 100 million.

The agreement represents the third and next to the last step in a plan to provide, through the IMF, international borrowing arrangements which — in IMF's words—"should make it possible to mobilize quickly large additional resources in defense of the international monetary system."

The U.S. Treasury, in a simultaneous announcement, said: "The borrowing arrangement could be of great assistance to the United States, as well as to any of the other participating countries, in meeting temporary balance-of-payment difficulties."

The final step will come when at least seven of the countries, whose pledges total not less than $5.5 billion, notify the IMF of their adherence to the pact. The supplemental fund then will be ready for use.

If one of the countries finds itself in payment difficulties which cannot be handled through the usual IMF procedures, the fund will borrow the needed currencies from members of the new pool. IMF then would re-lend the money to the country in trouble.

The terms and conditions announced today contain no provision for a veto by any single country on the use of its currency. Officials here had worried for a time that France might insist on such a provision.

Although nothing like a veto appears, the agreement seems to contain ample assurance that no country would be obliged to lend its currency if the loan would threaten financial difficulties for the lender.

Although the IMF already has available nearly $3 billion in its gold account and $6.5 billion in the currencies of major industrial countries, it was explained some of these funds might not be available if one or more of the nations were undergoing balance-of-payments difficulties. The new pool makes additional resources available for emergency use.

Confusion Veils Airliner Landing In Soviet Area

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A Belgian Sabena jet airliner, carrying 27 persons from Tehran to Istanbul, landed at a Soviet airfield today after radioing "We are being pursued by Russian planes."

Sabena authorities in Istanbul and in Brussels, the line's headquarters, said the plane was forced by Soviet jets to put down at the city of Yerevan, near the Soviet-Turkish frontier.

However, the line's manager in Tehran, Walter Devros, said a radio compass had failed and the pilot, Cmdr. Freddy Moureau, requested permission to make the landing.

By Devros' account, the Soviet craft merely escorted the liner to Yerevan. He said plans are for it to proceed to Istanbul, 850 miles west of Yerevan, as soon as repairs are completed.

Different Outlook

DEAR ABBY: The woman who signed herself "Very Very Hurt" because her husband sent her a birthday card with the message, "Happy Birthday to a Swell Fella on HIS Birthday," shouldn't have felt hurt. My most cherished possession is a birthday card I received from my 8-year-old son. He

Then he wrapped up his "life savings" (two dimes and a nickel) and gave it to me with a note, "From your children," meaning himself, his 3-year-old brother and an 8-month-old sister. Starts Career At 85 Years

MANUFACTURER — Steele D. Williams, who designed and built this machine to produce welding tips, one of which he holds, now has set up a manufacturing plant. He is 85.

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — When Steele D. Williams left Pittsburgh, Pa., three years ago at the age of 82, it looked as if he were retiring from a long and active life as a mining and metallurgical engineer.

But his rocking chair turned out to be a springboard — and at the age of 85 he is launching a new career, in manufacturing, using machines he designed and built.

Metal Forgings Inc., of which he is president, already has a new plant and a $9 million contract with Natco Corp., a steel distributor from Birmingham, Ala.

The concern will manufacture metal forgings, primarily natural and propane gas cutting tips and powered metal welding torches. The plant now employs 20 men, and Williams has plans to double that soon.

"I've always worked for myself," said Williams. "I've done mining and metallurgical work in practically every state in the union."

He came here three years ago looking for mineral deposits and — in this as in most other things in his life — he was successful. He hopes to use the minerals in his plant.

He recently returned from a business trip to Pittsburgh, and maintains a dawn-to-dusk pace at his office which would keep a man 30 or 40 years younger jumping.

Williams said he started his new business, "sort of out of necessity."

"I wanted to manufacture a new type of equipment," he said. "But there were no machines available to do this." So he designed and built his own.

"It took a lot of research," he said, "but it enables us to make alloys of our own composition which are stronger than any other on the market."

His friends said he was foolish at his age to start on a new career. Did Williams agree?

"Not at all," he exclaimed. "I can't just sit around. I have to have something to do."

Liz Not in Oscar Running, But Close Race Is Expected

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The remarkable thing about this year's Oscar race is that Elizabeth Taylor is not in the running.

It's the first time in five years that she hasn't been a candidate. The reason is simple: She didn't make a movie this year.

But other ladies did, and they're out to make it one of the closest battles in recent history.

Here are the major contenders: Natalie Wood, "Splendor in the Grass;" Rosalind Russell, "A Majority of One;" Geraldine Page, "Summer and Smoke;" Piper Laurie, "The Hustler;" Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine, "The Children's Hour;" Deborah Kerr, "The Innocents."

Two of these talented females won't find a place among the finalists. It's anybody's guess which two.

The race for male star is more compact. Here's the way it looks to this observer:

Paul Newman, "The Hustler;" Maximilian Schell, "Judgment at Nuremberg;" Maurice Chevalier, "Fanny;" Albert Finney, "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning;" James Cagney, "One, Two, Three."

The best-picture contest is a tough one. These are the probabilities, in this order:

"The Hustler," "West Side Story," "The Children's Hour," "Guns of Navarone," "Fanny," "Judgment at Nuremberg," "One, Two, Three."

Nominees for supporting performances are always difficult to predict. There are hundreds of candidates, and often the ones with the best press agents get nominated. But have crystal ball, will travel:

Best supporting actor — Jackie Gleason, "The Hustler;" George C. Scott, "The Hustler;" Montgomery Clift, "Judgment at Nuremberg;" George Chakiris, "West Side Story;" Edward Everett Horton, "Pocketful of Miracles."

Best supporting actress — Fay Bainter, "The Children's Hour;" Rita Moreno, "West Side Story;" Judy Garland, "Judgment at Nuremberg;" Lotte Lenya, "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone;" Una Merkel, "Summer and Smoke."

This year saw a repeat of the ridiculous situation of the major companies glutting the Los Angeles theaters with their academy hopefuls. The philosophy is that the pictures most recently in academy voters minds have the better chance. The result: Theatergoers have a holiday harvest of riches, then suffer a famine as the new year progresses.

If "The Hustler" proves the big winner this year—and it looks the favorite, it may help to relieve this situation. It was released far ahead of the deadline, as were "Fanny" and "Guns of Navarone."

We'll know how inaccurate these predictions are on Feb. 26, when the nominations are announced. The big prizes will be handed out with the usual hoopla at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium April 9.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Cold westerly winds moved over Ohio from the snow-covered Midwest to drop temperatures into the teens over the western counties this morning.

A light snowfall moved in with the change to colder, and more than half of the state reported the ground covered with one inch of new snow. The eastern counties had a fraction of an inch.

Snow flurries continued early today, and the outlook is for more of the same for the next 24 to 36 hours.

The morning weather map shows a low pressure area located north of the Great Lakes, while high pressure is moving down from Canada into the Plains states. This combination is favorable for continued cold with light snow flurries over most of the state and possibly some heavier flurries over the hills of North-eastern Ohio.

Dayton and Findlay reported the coldest temperatures this morning with readings of 16. Toledo had 17. Columbus 18. Cincinnati 19. Cleveland 26 and Marietta 33.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average four to eight degrees below normal. Normal high 38, normal low 22. Cold Tuesday moderating Wednesday, colder Thursday, little change remainder of period. Snow or rain about Wednesday and again about end of week.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average three to six degrees below normal. Normal high 35-36, normal low 19-22. Colder tonight and Tuesday, a little warmer Wednesday or Thursday, colder remainder of week. Occasional snow or scattered snow flurries during rest of week.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pretty much the same as last year's middle of the road—is a reasonable prediction of what to expect at home this year from the combined efforts of President Kennedy and Congress.

When Kennedy delivers his State of the Union message Thursday to Congress, which opens Wednesday, no sensations are expected. He has already given previews of his programs and what he will do about them.

The previews not only indicate he isn't going to get fighting mad but that he has even backtracked on at least one of his last year's proposals. That's on federal aid to education.

Last year he asked for a broad aid to education bill, including school construction. The opposition seemed to take the steam out of him on this one. This year he'll pitch for aid to higher education.

He may try harder for a program of medical care for the aged. How much harder remains to be seen. Last year this one ended in the soup.

Last year he failed so completely to make good on his campaign pledge of 1960 to push fast for new civil rights legislation that he didn't even offer any. He'll probably skip it this year, too.

There will be a real contest on his forthcoming request for more freedom in cutting tariffs so this country can deal better with Western Europe's Common Market.

On this one he has the support of some of the country's top Republicans.

There are two good tests of how hard a president is willing to push

on any given issue:

1. His willingness to make some members of Congress so angry that, in retaliation, they may gang up on him to slaughter some other program. So far Kennedy's policy has been to keep peace in the family.

2. Appealing directly to the people to put pressure on Congress. Last year Kennedy did little of this. There is no sign he'll do differently this year.

Kennedy has used two other methods: talking directly with key members and having his aides buttonhole them steadily in the Capitol.

If some of the issues mentioned above don't get through this year—medical care, aid to education, civil rights—they'll be issues in the 1962 congressional elections.

How failure to pass them could help Kennedy is hard to see. The Republicans can argue that the Democrats, who have huge majorities in both houses of Congress, must take responsibility for the failures.

The death of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who was a kind of patriarch in the House, will probably be a loss to Kennedy in some ways. But Rayburn's successor, John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, less conservative than the old Texan, may be on Kennedy's side on more issues than Rayburn was.

NEW EMPLOYEE — George Beale has joined the staff at Christopher Pontiac, N. Court St., as parts and service manager. He was affiliated with Denison Engineering of Columbus for the past four years. He plans to move his family here in the near future.

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — When Steele D. Williams left Pittsburgh, Pa., three years ago at the age of 82, it looked as if he were retiring from a long and active life as a mining and metallurgical engineer.

But his rocking chair turned out to be a springboard — and at the age of 85 he is launching a new career, in manufacturing, using machines he designed and built.

Metal Forgings Inc., of which he is president, already has a new plant and a $9 million contract with Natco Corp., a steel distributor from Birmingham, Ala.

The concern will manufacture metal forgings, primarily natural and propane gas cutting tips and powered metal welding torches. The plant now employs 20 men, and Williams has plans to double that soon.

"I've always worked for myself," said Williams. "I've done mining and metallurgical work in practically every state in the union."

He came here three years ago looking for mineral deposits and — in this as in most other things in his life — he was successful. He hopes to use the minerals in his plant.

He recently returned from a business trip to Pittsburgh, and maintains a dawn-to-dusk pace at his office which would keep a man 30 or 40 years younger jumping.

Williams said he started his new business, "sort of out of necessity."

"I wanted to manufacture a new type of equipment," he said. "But there were no machines available to do this." So he designed and built his own.

"It took a lot of research," he said, "but it enables us to make alloys of our own composition which are stronger than any other on the market."

His friends said he was foolish at his age to start on a new career. Did Williams agree?

"Not at all," he exclaimed. "I can't just sit around. I have to have something to do."

Liz Not in Oscar Running, But Close Race Is Expected

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The remarkable thing about this year's Oscar race is that Elizabeth Taylor is not in the running.

It's the first time in five years that she hasn't been a candidate. The reason is simple: She didn't make a movie this year.

But other ladies did, and they're out to make it one of the closest battles in recent history.

Here are the major contenders: Natalie Wood, "Splendor in the Grass"; Rosalind Russell, "A Majority of One"; Geraldine Page, "Summer and Smoke"; Piper Laurie, "The Hustler"; Audrey Hepburn and Shirley MacLaine, "The Children's Hour"; Deborah Kerr, "The Innocents."

Two of these talented females won't find a place among the finalists. It's anybody's guess which two.

The race for male star is more compact. Here's the way it looks to this observer:

Paul Newman, "The Hustler"; Maximilian Schell, "Judgment at Nuremberg"; Maurice Chevalier, "Fanny"; Albert Finney, "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning"; James Cagney, "One, Two, Three."

The best-picture contest is a tough one. These are the probabilities, in this order:

"The Hustler," "West Side Story," "The Children's Hour," "Guns of Navarone," "Fanny," "Judgment at Nuremberg," "One, Two, Three."

Nominees for supporting performances are always difficult to predict. There are hundreds of candidates, and often the ones with the best press agents get nominated. But have crystal ball, will travel:

Best supporting actor — Jackie Gleason, "The Hustler"; George C. Scott, "The Hustler"; Montgomery Clift, "Judgment at Nuremberg"; George Chakiris, "West Side Story"; Edward Everett Horton, "Pocketful of Miracles."

Best supporting actress — Fay Bainter, "The Children's Hour"; Rita Moreno, "West Side Story"; Judy Garland, "Judgment at Nuremberg"; Lotte Lenya, "Roman Spring of Mrs. Stone"; Una Merkel, "Summer and Smoke."

This year saw a repeat of the ridiculous situation of the major companies gutting the Los Angeles theaters with their academy hopefuls. The philosophy is that the pictures most recently in academy voters' minds have the better chance. The result: Theaters have a holiday harvest of riches, then suffer a famine as the new year progresses.

If "The Hustler" proves the big winner this year—and it looks the favorite, it may help to relieve this situation. It was released far ahead of the deadline, as were "Fanny" and "Guns of Navarone."

We'll know how inaccurate these predictions are on Feb. 26, when the nominations are announced. The big prizes will be handed out with the usual hoopla at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium April 9.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Officials Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Cold westerly winds moved over Ohio from the snow-covered Midwest to drop temperatures into the teens over the western counties this morning.

A light snowfall moved in with the change to colder, and more than half of the state reported the ground covered with one inch of new snow. The eastern counties had a fraction of an inch.

Snow flurries continued early today, and the outlook is for more of the same for the next 24 to 36 hours.

The morning weather map shows a low pressure area located north of the Great Lakes, while high pressure is moving down from Canada into the Plains states. This combination is favorable for continued cold with light snow flurries over most of the state and possibly some heavier flurries over the hills of North-eastern Ohio.

Dayton and Findlay reported the coldest temperatures this morning with readings of 16. Toledo had 17, Columbus 18, Cincinnati 19, Cleveland 26 and Marietta 33.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average four to eight degrees below normal. Normal high 38, normal low 22.

Cold Tuesday moderating Wednesday, colder Thursday, little change remainder of period. Snow or rain about Wednesday and again about end of week.

NORTHERN OHIO — Temperatures will average three to six degrees below normal. Normal high 35-36, normal low 19-22. Colder tonight and Tuesday, a little warmer Wednesday or Thursday, colder remainder of week. Occasional snow or scattered snow flurries during rest of week.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pretty much the same as last year's middle of the road—is a reasonable prediction of what to expect at home this year from the combined efforts of President Kennedy and Congress.

When Kennedy delivers his State of the Union message Thursday to Congress, which opens Wednesday, no sensations are expected. He has already given previews of his programs and what he will do about them.

The previews not only indicate he isn't going to get fighting mad but that he has even backtracked on at least one of his last year's proposals. That's on federal aid to education.

Last year he asked for a broad aid to education bill, including school construction. The opposition seemed to take the steam out of him on this one. This year he'll pitch for aid to higher education.

He may try harder for a program of medical care for the aged. How much harder remains to be seen. Last year this one ended in the soup.

Last year he failed so completely to make good on his campaign pledge of 1960 to push fast for new civil rights legislation that he didn't even offer any. He'll probably skip it this year, too.

There will be a real contest on his forthcoming request for more freedom in cutting tariffs so this country can deal better with Western Europe's Common Market.

On this one he has the support of some of the country's top Republicans.

There are two good tests of how hard a president is willing to push

on any given issue:

1. His willingness to make some members of Congress so angry that, in retaliation, they may gang up on him to slaughter some other program. So far Kennedy's policy has been to keep peace in the family.

2. Appealing directly to the people to put pressure on Congress. Last year Kennedy did little of this. There is no sign he'll do differently this year.

Kennedy has used two other methods: talking directly with key members and having his aides buttonhole them steadily in the Capitol.

If some of the issues mentioned above don't get through this year—medical care, aid to education, civil rights—they'll be issues in the 1962 congressional elections.

How failure to pass them could help Kennedy is hard to see. The Republicans can argue that the Democrats, who have huge majorities in both houses of Congress, must take responsibility for the failures.

The death of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who was a kind of patriarch in the House, will probably be a loss to Kennedy in some ways. But Rayburn's successor, John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, less conservative than the old Texan, may be on Kennedy's side on more issues than Rayburn was.

NEW EMPLOYEE — George Beale has joined the staff at Christopher Pontiac, N. Court St., as parts and service manager. He was affiliated with Denison Engineering of Columbus for the past four years. He plans to move his family here in the near future.

Canada-China Wheat Deal

More amazing daily becomes Canada's wheat deal with Red China. Agriculture Secretary Hamilton has just signed another sales contract for $71 million in grain for the reds.

This is part of a long-term agreement which Hamilton made with Peiping, the terms of which have never been completely revealed but which, according to Hamilton, committed China to buy wheat, flour and barley to the tune of $362 million by the end of 1963. Rotating credit is being given for 75 per cent of the total.

The first contract covered the period of June to November and included purchases of 1.5 million bushels of flour. But no flour has been purchased. At first Hamilton said he was sure Red China would live up to its undertaking.

Now he says he is not sure whether these undertakings were binding and that there is no time limit. Meanwhile he is ready to ship more wheat on credit.

But the China deal becomes still more puzzling in the wake of Hamilton's bland statement that, if Canada has another poor harvest, it will have to ration wheat sales to its other customers who are old and established and pay cash.

Push the Button

A current hit play in London has the provocative title, "Stop the World, I Want to Get Off." Many don't want to get off just yet, but the time may be growing nearer.

A few persons probably came close to pulling the emergency cord the other day on reading of science's newest brainchild. A University of Minnesota scientist has found that human behavior can be controlled electrically, by implanting "sensing pellets" in the body, up to 30 at a wack.

Each pellet would cause a different reaction when activated. The scientists say "There is no doubt that we can modify human behavior in this way," but he also questions how far science should go in tampering with behavior.

The behavior project has a high military priority, reports say. It is understandable. Push one button and the soldier charges, push another and he takes cover, with no questions asked.

The scientist sees applications in medicine, economics, and other fields. Ideally suited to push-button behaviorism are selling and politics. Push a button and the voters vote right; push another and the consumers consume the right products. It makes one think.

Ben Had Clean Habit

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

One habit of Benjamin Franklin scandalized his neighbors—he took three baths a week. Even doctors of that day thought such a practice was dangerous to health.

Here's an odd sidelight on bathing today: more than twice as many people drown in bathtubs as in swimming pools.

What is America's biggest industry? Expert John Scarne insists it's gambling. He estimates we bet $50 billion a year—most of it illegally.

How they got started: Actor Henry Fonda once worked as a telephone company trouble shooter. Comedian Shelley Berman drove a taxicab. David Sarnoff, the communications tycoon, was a pioneer radio operator.

Does your wife sew? If not, she's out of step with the times. Home sewing is becoming increasingly popular, particularly among younger women. Some 70 per cent of U.S. women own sewing machines.

Candy can be medicine. The Boston Children's Hospital has found an old-fashioned lollipop is often the best tranquilizer to calm young patients. In 1960 it gave away 93,500 lollipops, an average of five to a child.

Our quotable notables. "The most effective water power in the world — women's tears." —Wilson Mizner.

Safety statistic: It is startling enough that in one out of five traffic accidents a chronically reckless motorist is involved. But even more startling: four out of five accidents involve drivers ordinarily conscientious!

Did you now your fingernails grow four times as fast as your toenails—about an eighth of an inch a month?

Don't fret if it sometimes takes you longer to do a job than the other fellow. Leonardo da Vinci spent four years painting "The Last Supper"—but his masterpiece has endured 4½ centuries.

More white collar jobs: Despite the increased use of automation in business offices clerical employment rose from eight million to more than nine million between 1955 and 1960.

Wisecrack of the week: "When two conceited people meet," says singer Jeannie Thomas, "it's strictly an I for an I."

Does Mother Nature play favorites? The mouse has a gallbladder, but the rat doesn't. Cows and sheep have gallbladders; horses and deer don't.

Executive mottoes: "Success comes from stepping up the stairs —not starting up the steps." —Irving J. Botner, shoe polish firm prexy.

Petty larceny adds up to big money. Thefts of automobile hubcaps cost U.S. car owners $5 million a year.

A lesson from abroad: Greece protects its children from the portrayal of violence. Youngsters under 16 cannot see any film or stage show depicting violence. Even guns and knives pictured in movie stills at the entrance of theaters must be covered with patches of paper.

Big city: Many people who'd hate to live in Baghdad-on-the-subway find it a fine place to earn a living. Each working day half a million commuters journey to and from jobs in Manhattan.

It was Helen Rowland who observed, "A man loses his illusions first, his teeth second, and his follies last."

GOP CAUCUS—The only two Republicans in the Texas legislature find they can hold their caucus in a telephone booth as a special 30-day session gets underway in Austin. They are Rep. Kenneth Kohler (top) of Amarillo and Rep. George Korkman of Texas City.

In 1516 Salim the Grim conquered Syria for the Ottoman Turks, who ruled until 1819 when British Arabs occupied the country. Syria was under French mandate between the two World Wars and won full independence in 1945.

Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, is dominated by the hilltop Danish consulate, once the private home of a Danish governor.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, who never has to be pressed very hard to tell stories about his freshman year in the U.S. Senate, recalls the day he made his maiden speech there. Flushed with success, he encountered Arizona Senator Carl Hayden in a corridor, and joining step with him, asked, "Senator, what do you think is the main difference between the Senate of your early incumbency and the Senate now?" Senator Hayden's crusty rejoinder was, "New members didn't speak in those days!"

Vice President Johnson's recent experience as host to an ebullient camel driver from the Near East has been the inspiration for a number of wise cracks in Washington. Noting some building activity near the V.P.'s domicile, one senator, for instance, observed, "I suspect Mr. Johnson is adding a two-camel garage."

Red Skelton announces that he's throwing his hat into the next gubernatorial ring. "With any luck," he adds. "I'll be your next gube."

Inside You and Yours

Doubting Thomas: A new essential mineral?

M.D.: Yes, fluorine — or fluoride. As essential as calcium!

D.T.: Isn't fluoride a poison?

M.D.: Too much is — just like too much calcium.

D.T.: Then why all the fuss about adding it to drinking water?

M.D.: Because some people don't understand and whip up screaming crowds.

D.T.: Aren't natural fluorides safer?

M.D.: Slightly. But small traces of artificial fluoride are perfectly safe.

D.T.: Traces?

M.D.: Yes. Engineers can easily keep fluoride concentration down to one part per million — and less on hot days when water evaporates.

D.T.: And no poisoning?

M.D.: One case — from drinking natural fluorides in dried-up well water.

D.T.: Didn't soft drinks lose quality and washers leave laundry dirty when Newburgh, New York, began adding fluoride to its water supply?

M.D.: Thousands complained — all before a single drop of fluoride was added! Deliveries had delayed the project.

D.T.: How does fluoride work?

M.D.: Traces harden growing tooth enamel. Then, lactic acid can't eat through so easily.

D.T.: All this fuss and expense just for children?

M.D.: For tomorrow's adults — and today's, too.

D.T.: How?

M.D.: First, fewer dentist bills; also, stronger bones. Where water break bones and these breaks knit faster and stronger, too. Also fluoride seems to help senior citizens with painful osteoporosis.

D.T.: Is it right to force people to drink a drug they don't want?

M.D.: Drug? Fluorine is an essential mineral like calcium and phosphorus. Is it wrong to force people to drink chlorine — purified water?

D.T.: You know, I'm going to health.

M.D.: So does fluorine!

D.T.: You know, I'm going to start a "We Want Fluoride!" campaign.

M.D.: You won't win.

D.T.: Huh?

M.D.: Not unless you scream louder than the others!

Whoever Lives by the Sword

By George Sokolsky

In a period of constant revolution, the orderly processes of change of government disappear. Kings are succeeded by sons or daughters in prescribed order; Presidents are elected by the people in accordance with Constitutional procedure. But revolutions throw up governments. Whoever can seize power holds it until someone comes along and establishes himself in power.

The rule of thumb is: Why you — not me? Thus Hitler deprived Hindenburg of lawful authority. True, Hitler was elected but there was no realistic opposition just as Soviet Russia and all revolutionary countries reject the test of opposition. The people really have no voice; they are either dominated by an organized mob or by troops. In a revolution, the voice of the people is loud and harsh at the start, but it soon melts away into a frightened whisper.

In 1917, the call of the revolution was loud in Russia. It was the people's voice and the people moved. In 1918 however, it was no longer about shouting and instructing, or the people's voice; it had become the party's authority. The dictatorship of the proletariat had seized power. By 1919, the dictatorship remained but the proletariat has been reduced to a frightened mass. It so remained for 40 years. What it is now, beggars description.

In China, there has been no orderly government since 1850 when the Taiping Rebellion upset the authority of the Manchu Dynasty. However, the Manchus continued somehow to reign, although they no longer ruled. The Westerners had moved in by way of the sea, the Russians overland from Siberia, Japan by way of Korea and Manchuria; the Boxer Rebellion further weakened authority; then came the 1912 Revolution and the 1915 Revolution and the attempted establishment of the Republic.

But the Republic was never a republic. It was never a government. Rather it was a congeries of independent provinces, managed by warlords who often grouped together.

Soon, powerful warlords were killing weaker warlords and some of them made deals with foreign countries. For instance, a character called Little Hsu organized the Anfu League of warlords and made separate deals with the Japanese which started China rolling into new troubles. By 1920, China no longer was a nation but was an area dominated by fighting warlords. Why you-not me? Whoever was able to seize territory or finance an army exercised power.

The masses rose in revolt in 1925 through one of the accidents in history when an Indian policeman employed by the Shanghai Municipal Council shot a Chinese worker. Thus came the Communist revolution, not made by Communists at all, but by an angry people who wanted the British, French, Americans, Japanese to cease participating in their affairs.

Sun Yat-sen, an idealist, wanted to create a democratic republic and really tried to establish such a government in Canton in 1925, but Sun died and who was to take his place? You or me? There was not much arguing. Chiang Kai-shek had the troops and Russian support. So Wang Ching-wei and Hu Han-min who were the more logical successors, ran away from physical power and that was the end of the democratic republic. Chiang and the warlords with Russia and Japan playing such roles as they could until World War II determined that the Russians would dominate China and establish a Communist government, headed by a soldier who has disappeared from the scene and a professor, Mao Tze-tung, who managed to become a master of men.

Why Mao? Why not? Does it really matter who takes over a government. In the disorders of revolution, whoever can manage to establish himself is the master. Thus in Cuba, there is Castro, a figure who lied himself into power, who knew how to manipulate Americans and get aid from Soviet Russia. Or in India, there is Nehru, nominally the successor to Gandhi, a figure of a noble idealist, whose eyes turn inward as he speaks to himself in profound thought and plays the same game as Nasser and Tito.

Grab while there remains a chance, for who can resist the one who is powerful and will enough to grab. That is the rule of revolution and whoever follows this rule astutely survives — or perhaps survives a little longer than his predecessor.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, who never has to be pressed very hard to tell stories about his freshman year in the U.S. Senate, recalls the day he made his maiden speech there. Flushed with success, he encountered Arizona Senator Carl Hayden in a corridor, and joining step with him, asked, "Senator, what do you think is the main difference between the Senate of your early incumbency and the Senate now?" Senator Hayden's crusty rejoinder was, "New members didn't speak in those days!"

Vice President Johnson's recent experience as host to an ebullient camel driver from the Near East has been the inspiration for a number of wise cracks in Washington. Inside You and Yours

Doubting Thomas: A new essential mineral?

M.D.: Yes, fluorine — or fluoride. As essential as calcium!

D.T.: Isn't fluoride a poison?

M.D.: Too much is — just like too much calcium.

D.T.: Then why all the fuss about adding it to drinking water?

M.D.: Because some people don't understand and whip up screaming crowds.

D.T.: Aren't natural fluorides safer?

M.D.: Slightly. But small traces of artificial fluoride are perfectly safe.

D.T.: Traces?

M.D.: Yes. Engineers can easily keep fluoride concentration down to one part per million — and less on hot days when water evaporates.

D.T.: And no poisoning?

M.D.: One case — from drinking natural fluorides in dried-up well water.

D.T.: Didn't soft drinks lose quality and washers leave laundry dirty when Newburgh, New York, began adding fluoride to its water supply?

M.D.: Thousands complained — all before a single drop of fluoride was added! Deliveries had delayed the project.

D.T.: How does fluoride work?

M.D.: Traces harden growing tooth enamel. Then, lactic acid can't eat through so easily.

D.T.: All this fuss and expense just for children?

M.D.: For tomorrow's adults — and today's, too.

D.T.: How?

M.D.: First, fewer dentist bills; also, stronger bones. Where water break bones and these breaks knit faster and stronger, too. Also fluoride seems to help senior citizens with painful osteoporosis.

D.T.: Is it right to force people to drink a drug they don't want?

M.D.: Drug? Fluorine is an essential mineral like calcium and phosphorus. Is it wrong to force people to drink chlorine — purified water?

D.T.: You know, I'm going to health.

M.D.: So does fluorine!

D.T.: You know, I'm going to start a "We Want Fluoride!" campaign.

M.D.: You won't win.

D.T.: Huh?

M.D.: Not unless you scream louder than the others!

Whoever Lives by the Sword

By George Sokolsky

In a period of constant revolution, the orderly processes of change of government disappear. Kings are succeeded by sons or daughters in prescribed order; Presidents are elected by the people in accordance with Constitutional procedure. But revolutions throw up governments. Whoever can seize power holds it until someone comes along and establishes himself in power.

The rule of thumb is: Why you — not me? Thus Hitler deprived Hindenberg of lawful authority. True, Hitler was elected but there was no realistic opposition just as Soviet Russia and all revolutionary countries reject the test of opposition. The people really have no voice; they are either dominated by an organized mob or by troops. In a revolution, the voice of the people is loud and harsh at the start, but it soon melts away into a frightened whisper.

In 1917, the call of the revolution was loud in Russia. It was the people's voice and the people moved. In 1918 however, it was no longer about shouting and instructing, or the people's voice; it had become the party's authority. The dictatorship of the proletariat had seized power. By 1919, the dictatorship remained but the proletariat had been reduced to a frightened mass. It so remained for 40 years. What it is now, beggars description.

In China, there has been no orderly government since 1850 when the Taiping Rebellion upset the authority of the Manchu Dynasty. However, the Manchus continued somehow to reign, although they no longer ruled. The Westerners had moved in by way of the sea, the Russians overland from Siberia, Japan by way of Korea and Manchuria; the Boxer Rebellion further weakened authority; then came the 1912 Revolution and the 1915 Revolution and the attempted establishment of the Republic.

But the Republic was never a republic. It was never a government. Rather it was a congeries of independent provinces, managed by warlords who often grouped together.

Soon, powerful warlords were killing weaker warlords and some of them made deals with foreign countries. For instance, a character called Little Hsu organized the Anfu League of warlords and made separate deals with the Japanese which started China rolling into new troubles. By 1920, China no longer was a nation but was an area dominated by fighting warlords. Why you-not me? Whoever was able to seize territory or finance an army exercised power.

The masses rose in revolt in 1925 through one of the accidents in history when an Indian policeman employed by the Shanghai Municipal Council shot a Chinese worker. Thus came the Communist revolution, not made by Communists at all, but by an angry people who wanted the British, French, Americans, Japanese to cease participating in their affairs.

Sun Yat-sen, an idealist, wanted to create a democratic republic and really tried to establish such a government in Canton in 1925, but Sun died and who was to take his place? You or me? There was not much arguing. Chiang Kai-shek had the troops and Russian support. So Wang Ching-wei and Hu Han-min who were the more logical successors, ran away from physical power and that was the end of the democratic republic. Chiang and the warlords with Russia soon became a contest between Chiang and the warlords with Russia and Japan playing such roles as they could until World War II determined that the Russians would dominate China and establish a Communist government, headed by a soldier who has disappeared from the scene and a professor, Mao Tze-tung, who managed to become a master of men.

Why Mao? Why not? Does it really matter who takes over a government. In the disorders of revolution, whoever can manage to establish himself is the master. Thus in Cuba, there is Castro, a figure who lied himself into power, who knew how to manipulate Americans and get aid from Soviet Russia. Or in India, there is Nehru, nominally the successor to Gandhi, a figurine of a noble idealist, whose eyes turn inward as he speaks to himself in profound thought and plays the same game as Nasser and Tito.

Grab while there remains a chance, for who can resist the one who is powerful and wily enough to grab. That is the rule of revolution and whoever follows this rule astutely survives — or perhaps survives a little longer than his predecessor.

Junior Luther League Play Is Presented for Parents

The Junior Luther League of Trinity Lutheran Church entertained their parents at a regular meeting Sunday night in the Parish House.

The program was the play, "Great Smokies," a Hillbilly comedy by LeRoma Greth, which was produced by members of the League under the direction of Mrs. Stanley Spring. The action took place on a spring day in the main room of the Schlepper cabin in the Smoky Mountains.

Brad Marshall played the part of Paw Schlepper, a widower, while Pam Parker, Ellisa Evans and Craig Benzenberg played his three children, Ducky Belle, Emmy Sue and Hiram, respectively. The part of the widow Daisy Snodgrass was portrayed by Joyce Valentine. Sue Gutzat and John Wills played her children, Dottie Lou and Willie.

The parts of Lizzie and Zeke Cook were played by Connie Lindsey and Jim Minor. Prompters were Christine Ebert and Nancy Brobst. John O'Hara and David Morris served as ushers. Mrs. Carl Rihl assisted with make-up.

AT THE meeting which preceded the play, devotions were given by Stanley Spring. President Sue Gutzat encouraged all Leaguers to attend the dinner meeting at 5:30 p. m. Wednesday. An interesting "Luther League Clinic" program has been arranged. She also announced that swim meets have been arranged at the Lancaster and Columbus YMCA's during the coming months.

Leaguers were advised that addresses of pen pals in Europe will be made available to those members desiring to correspond with Lutheran youth abroad.

During the interval between the meeting and the presentation of the play, a record pantomime was given by Pam Parker.

Following the program, refreshments were served by Mrs. Paul Brobst and daughters, Nancy and Marsha, and Mrs. Harold Pontius and daughters Linda and Patty.

Many Admire Winter Wonder, Few Know Secrets of Snow

Most snowflakes are six-sided.

By FRANK WATSON
Central Press Staff Writer
Car owners gripe about it, kids throw it at each other and nature lovers admire its beauty, but few of them know much about snow.

Take that phrase of William Shakespeare — "white as driven snow." If Shakespeare could examine individual snowflakes, he would find that they are icy gray in color.

The makeup of each snowflake gives this impression of whiteness. The crystals that form snow resemble prisms. The light which hits these prisms is bent out of shape, producing the colors of the spectrum. The colored rays which emerge from many angles appear whitish or grayish.

Actually, red, green, blue and even black snow is occasionally seen in many parts of the world. These colors are due to the presence of tiny fungi, or dust collected by the snow as it falls through the air.

SNOW IS not frozen water, like hail and sleet. When water vapor solidifies on tiny particles in the atmosphere, crystals form. The particles may be only one-500,000th of an inch in diameter. The amount of water in snow is about one-tenth that of rain.

Changes in temperature and humidity are a few of the factors that shape snowflakes. Probably no other substance crystallizes in such an infinite variety of forms as water. Weather experts have not found any two snowflakes alike.

Some crystals are flat or tabular, some columnar needles and some are compound structures. The variations of these classes are endless.

Most flakes are six-sided or six-pointed, but they range from simple to the fantastically complex. There are stars, prisms, needles, pyramids and combinations of these.

Perhaps the most curious are the cuff-bottom doublets composed of a large and small crystal connected by a columnar needle. Others suggest bullets or beautiful lace work. These intricate patterns are copied by jewelry and fabric designers.

When the temperature stands far below freezing, the crystals fall as individual units, but if the temperature is just above freezing, crystals cling together.

OCCASIONALLY when a plane flies through snow, electrical charges in some of the flakes will cause troublesome static on the plane's radio.

When snowflakes reach the ground, they lose their crystalline shape and turn into ice granules.

Meteorologists classify snowfalls as wet — the best for snowballs, sticky, most suitable for snowmen, breakable and granular. The latter two are a mixture formed by partial melting and refreezing.

Snow is confined to clouds at upper levels under tropical or midsummer conditions and generally changes to rain as it falls. Snow occurs in all seasons and all climates.

Next time, if you're unlucky enough to get "stopped cold" in your car by snow, at least you'll know "your enemy" better.

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio mother of the year 1949 died Sunday in Lawrence County General Hospital following a long illness. She was Mrs. Erma Marting, 84, wife of a prominent physician here and the mother of three daughters who also are physicians.

Her husband is Dr. W. F. Marting, who also is an Ironton city councilman. The daughters are Dr. Anne Alstott, president of the Ironton City School Board; Dr. Ester Fabing of Cincinnati and Dr. Mariam Marting of Ironton, who has retired from practice.

Nixon Hit for Tie To Birch Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California said today Richard M. Nixon "is not joining the fight against the ultra right-wing, although these extremists are a strong force in our state and in his party."

Brown said former Vice President Nixon "must choose between principle and opportunism. He has chosen the latter. He has stepped away from those who are fighting the political primitives, and he apparently wants their money and support."

Brown's attack on Nixon, who has declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the California governorship, was in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Press Club.

Nowhere in his remarks did Brown state unequivocally that he will seek re-election this year. But, he hinted at it several times.

He closed by saying: "I have a hunch Richard Nixon will walk into the 'bare-knuckle' scrap he's looking for—and I don't think you will want to miss a round of it."

Brown introduced the subject "of the John Birch Society and its extremist allies" by saying they pose a situation in his state "that seriously disturbs me."

"You may well note," the Democratic governor said, "that Nixon is not a John Birch, and the evidence is that he is not."

However, Brown added, Nixon "appears on the same platform with Birch candidates and assures them 'There is room in the Republican party for people who differ.' He goes even farther. He promises to support them if they win in the primaries."

"I would hope that responsible Republicans in California will not let him walk both sides of the street much longer. He is not fighting extremists. And the only way to meet this issue is to fight it, in whatever form it turns up."

Brown said "one important unit of the Republican party already has swung to the Birchers—while Nixon and other Republican leaders look away."

And, Brown added, Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, "claims California as his main source of both dollars and disciples."

"No other state," Brown said, "must admit to having two John Birch representatives in Congress." This was a reference to Republican Reps. Edgar W. Hiestand and John H. Rousslet, who have said they are members of the society.

"Furthermore," Brown said, "the ultraconservatives have corporate financial support. They are using it to exact concessions from merely Conservative republicans, and to seize control of party organization."

Brown said that if he runs for re-election he wants no support from extremists of the left or right.

Nixon Hit for Tie To Birch Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California said today Richard M. Nixon "is not joining the fight against the ultra right-wing, although these extremists are a strong force in our state and in his party."

Brown said former Vice President Nixon "must choose between principle and opportunism. He has chosen the latter. He has stepped away from those who are fighting the political primitives, and he apparently wants their money and support."

Brown's attack on Nixon, who has declared his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the California governorship, was in a speech prepared for delivery to the National Press Club.

Nowhere in his remarks did Brown state unequivocally that he will seek re-election this year. But, he hinted at it several times. He closed by saying: "I have a hunch Richard Nixon will walk into the 'bare-knuckle' scrap he's looking for—and I don't think you will want to miss a round of it."

Brown introduced the subject "of the John Birch Society and its extremist allies" by saying they pose a situation in his state "that seriously disturbs me."

"You may well note," the Democratic governor said, "that Nixon is not a John Birch, and the evidence is that he is not."

However, Brown added, Nixon "appears on the same platform with Birch candidates and assures them 'There is room in the Republican party for people who differ.' He goes even farther. He promises to support them if they win in the primaries.

"I would hope that responsible Republicans in California will not let him walk both sides of the street much longer. He is not fighting extremists. And the only way to meet this issue is to fight it, in whatever form it turns up."

Brown said "one important unit of the Republican party already has swung to the Birchers—while Nixon and other Republican leaders look away."

And, Brown added, Robert Welch, founder of the John Birch Society, "claims California as his main source of both dollars and disciples."

"No other state," Brown said, "must admit to having two John Birch representatives in Congress." This was a reference to Republican Reps. Edgar W. Hiestand and John H. Rousselot, who have said they are members of the society.

"Furthermore," Brown said, "the ultraconservatives have corporate financial support. They are using it to exact concessions from merely Conservative republicans, and to seize control of party organization."

Brown said that if he runs for re-election he wants no support from extremists of the left or right.

Big, Bulky Knit Sweaters Are High Fashion Favorites

By ELEANOR ROSS

Knits placed high on this year's gift list, with those big, bulky sweaters a prime favorite. Each season brings its intriguing variations and just now, the bulky sweater holds the sartorial spotlight in the winter knitwear department.

These big handsome sweaters are long and lovely, as well as bulky, and feature jacquard patterns in luscious colors, novelty stitches and often a tweedy look in herringbone, heather and multi-color donegal effects.

Many are co-ordinated, with a choice of go-together pants, skirts and jackets.

The thing to do with such attractive articles is to use them and keep them looking like new. That's the trick to looking great in these "great-sweaters" as the fashion press labels them.

Knits actually have to be laundered frequently to maintain their fresh look, true color and best fit. So study up on the best laundry methods in order to attain best results.

For one thing, bulky knits absorb a great deal of water, so wash them where they will have sufficient room — perhaps in the bathtub.

To dry knitwear more rapidly, roll it in a dry bath towel after rinsing, then in a second dry towel to absorb even more moisture.

These techniques apply, of course, to all knits.

The cardigans, which offer a wide variety of fine fashion choices, call for a preliminary step in laundering, which is to close any buttons or zippers. Keep the closures — including skirt or pants pockets — fastened during

SHE'S A BLONDE NOW—Actress Gina Lollobrigida, whose brunette tresses were internationally admired, makes her first appearance as a blonde at a Rome, Italy, film studio. The hair change was made for a new film, "Beauty of Ippolita."

Here's a Lenten surprise for the little folks. Cut a few frankfurter rolls in half lengthwise. Scoop out the soft centers and toast the rolls lightly. Finely chop two shelled hard cooked eggs and mix with mayonnaise. Line the inside of the roll "boats" generously with egg mixture and in each place a whole sardine. Ohio Collegiate Cagers Aim at League Crowns

OSU, Cincy, BeeGees Chalk Up Victories In Conference Play

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Warm up games and holiday tournaments behind them, Ohio's collegiate basketball powers have turned their sights toward conference crowns.

Ohio State's Buckeyes, who must win the Big Ten title for a third consecutive time to get another shot at the NCAA championship, had little trouble in taking the first step Saturday night. The Bucks made it 11 in a row with an 85-62 decision over Northwestern on the Wildcats' court.

John Havlicek took the scoring honors from All - America Jerry Lucas as Hondo tallied 27 points. Lucas, after dropping in a couple of hook shots early in the contest, switched to a rebounding and play-making role. He finished with 16 points to his credit.

Ohio State is idle until Saturday when they entertain Michigan.

Cincinnati's defending NCAA champions won their third in the tough Missouri Valley Conference. The Bearcats easily defeated Tulsa 72-43. The talent-rich Cincinnati are in second place in their league, trailing Bradley which has played only one conference game.

The second - ranked Bearcats' lone defeat this year was at the hands of conference rival Wichita.

Bowling Green, which stood alone in pre-season predictions as the Mid - American Conference champion, made it two wins in a row in that loop Saturday night, but the combined margin of victory in the games is a slim three points.

The Falcons, the third Ohio team among the nation's top 10—the Falcons are 10th—had to stop a sudden last minute rally to nip Ohio University 64-62. The Bobcats, who have won the MAC title the past two years, were trailing by 14 with a little over four minutes to go, but two free throws by Falcon Howard Komives with six seconds remaining put the game out of reach for Ohio.

Bowling Green's other Mid-Am triumph was a 73-72 affair over Western Michigan.

Wittenberg climbed back to its familiar perch atop the Ohio Conference pile Saturday with a 60-46 win over Capital—the Tigers' 38th consecutive conference victory. Wittenberg had been tied with Muskingum for the lead, but the Muskies were surprised by Baldwin-Wallace, 72-66.

At the other end of the 15-team loop, Hiram lost its 26th straight conference game 69-58 to Wooster.

Ashtand, which was defeated 69-64 in a non-league game with Mount Union, holds the lead in the Mid-Ohio League with a 3-1 mark.—one victory more than Ohio Northern, Cedarville and Defiance. Case Tech edged John Carroll 78-75 in Cleveland to remain in a deadlock with Bethany (W. Va.) for the lead in the Presidents' Conference.

In other action on the Ohio scene Saturday night:

Dayton's towering Flyers got caught in a real team effort and came off on the short end of a 78-68 battle with Canisius. Five Griff players were in double figures. The loss was the Flyers' second in 11 games.

Miami stayed even with Bowling Green in the Mid-American race with a 54-36 win at Oxford. The win was the Redskins' second in the loop. Toledo is 1-1.

Xavier outlasted Ohio Wesleyan and handed the Bishops their second defeat in 12 starts—82-51. The Musketeers used 13 players in the rout.

The state's highest scoring team, Central State, was held down Saturday night but managed to defeat Steubenville 91-78. The Marauders, 6-2 for the season, are averaging 68.6 points a game.

For the mathematicians, Ohio teams have won 105 of 163 contests with out-of-state opponents so far this season. The scoring totals 12,239 for the Ohioans and 11,177 for the "foreigners."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A fire which apparently started from an electric heater in an office caused an estimated $30,000 damage to the Canada Dry Bottling Co. here Sunday night. One fireman was injured slightly while fighting the blaze.

Broncos Loose Vengeance on Madison South

Ashtville's Broncos had to lie in wait almost a full year, but Saturday night they got what they had been aiming for since last March—a win over the team that toppled them by one point in the central district class A finals.

The Broncos rode roughshod over powerful Madison South in the Ashtville gym, blasting along after a slow first quarter to thrash the visitors 65-45.

Coach Russ Gregg's varsity cagers, in running their unblemished ledger to 9-0, held only 9-4 advantage at the close of the opening period. But the Broncos began to roll then, racing to a 29-13 halftime lead behind the shooting of Tom and Jim Rathburn and Dan Hollenback.

Ashtville added 20 more counts in the third stanza to jump to a 49-27 advantage going into the final eight minutes. Madison South, led by Renick with 12 markers, poured through 18 points in the last period in a comeback try, but it was too little, too late.

TOM RATHBURN showed the way for the all-victorious Broncos with 17 tallies on seven field goals and three foul shots. Jim Rathburn hit 14 and Dan Hollenback picked up 12. Dick Hollenback plunked through nine, seven of them at the charity stripe. Sonny Roof worked over the nets for 13 counters.

Madison South split the evening's spoils with a 44-29 win in the reserve test.

Bulldogs Bite Aces, 54-46

Centralia's Bulldogs picked up the marbles where it counted—at the end— to wipe out a mid-game Amanda-Clearcreek lead and take a 54-46 victory, their eighth in 13 outings.

Man of the moment in the Ross County team was Monte Hinton who notched 26 points during the game, 12 of them in the critical last quarter on eight free throws and two foul shots. In all Hinton collected 12 charity tosses and seven buckets.

Floyd Edler contributed 12 markers to the victory drive. Centralia led, 10-4, after a show first period but fell behind, 16-13, at the half. Amanda stayed in front, 37-31, after three stanzas, but the Bulldogs suddenly spurred for 23 markers and the win in the final eight minutes.

The loss was the Aces second in nine matches. Gary Young paced the losing effort with 15 counters on seven field goals and one foul success. Jim Anderson had 10.

In the reserve bout, the Aces sweated out 29-27 decision over Centralia.

OSU, Mississippi State Top Major Undefeated List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State and Mississippi State ruled the roost today as the only two undefeated major college basketball teams in the country—but there may be trouble ahead for the Bulldogs from the Southeastern Conference.

Ohio State (11-0) has only one game on tap this week, against Michigan on Saturday. Mississippi State (10-0), the defending South-eastern champions, entertains Alabama Tuesday night and that should be no problem.

But on Saturday, State runs up against Vanderbilt on the Commodores' court and that's giving Coach Babe McCarthy and his crew some uneasy moments.

Vandy has only a 6-5 record, but around the conference Mississippi State is known as a pretty soft touch for the northern division teams in their own lair. Vanderbilt is in the northern division and, despite its mediocre record, has hopes of winning the title.

The Bulldogs, a tight defensive outfit, polished off Auburn, 51-48, Saturday night for No. 10, while Ohio State, No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll, opened defense of its Big Ten title by sailing past Northwestern, 85-62.

The Buckeyes can look to the future with a lot more confidence than Mississippi State. They didn't lose a game last season until they bumped against Cincinnati in the final of the NCAA tournament.

Cincinnati (11-1) has a big one on tap Wednesday night against Bradley, its top rival for the Missouri Valley Conference title.

Bradley (8-2) is rolling with seven straight victories including last Saturday's 70-63 decision over Wichita, the only team that has beaten Cincinnati. The Bearcats meanwhile steamrolled Tulsa, 72-43.

Vanderbilt warms up to its task against Mississippi State tonight when it meets Kentucky, No. 3 in the AP poll behind Ohio State and Cincinnati. Adolph Rupp's Wildcats (10-1) downed Georgia Tech Saturday, 89-70.

There were at least three other major upsets Saturday. In the biggest, Villanova, after running up a string of 13 victories without a defeat, fell before West Virginia, 88-82. Bob Thorn hit 29 points for the winners.

Kansas State (10-2), fourth-ranked in the country, and Duke (9-2), eighth-rated, also toppled. Colorado, which made good on 25 of 27 free throws, took the measure of K-State, 75-62, while North Carolina State nipped the Blue Devils, 61-60, on John Pungner's last-second field goal.

Southern California (11-2), the class of the West Coast, cemented its No. 6 spot with a 79-52 victory over California. Duquesne (9-1), ranked No. 7, trounced St. Bonaventure, 73-52, while Bowling Green (10-2) No. 10, barely squeezed past Ohio University, 62-60, in a Mid-America Conference game.

At LSU, Dietzel left a wealth of talent, a lucrative job and some bitter feelings. His $18,500-a-year contract still had four years to run and more was offered. When reports cropped up he wanted out, there was vehement criticism.

After much sound and fury, the LSU Board of Supervisors granted his release in a meeting Friday. His salary at Army presumably will be $18,500, with a 5-year contract.

In seven seasons at LSU, Dietzel's Tiger teams won 44, lost 23, tied 3 and had a 2-1 mark in bowl games. His 1958 squad was national champion with a 10-0 record and he was Coach of the Year. LSU was 9-1 in 1959 and again this past season, and his finale with the Tigers was their 25-7 victory over Colorado in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

At Army, Dietzel succeeds Dale Hall, who was dismissed after three seasons on Dec. 9. In three tries, Hall's teams failed to beat Navy—and Navy's recent superiority has rankled Army deeply.

Monroe Nipped By Kingston

Kingston, carrying a slim lead most of the way, held out despite a stiff Monroe challenge to claim a 59-58 decision Saturday night.

Hammond paced the winners with 22 counters on nine field goals and four foul shots. Lauerman hit 12 to back him up. Jeff Bigam topped the Indians with 20 tallies on four baskets and a booming 12 charity tosses. Diltz hit 10 and Hunt had 11.

The winning Redskins carried a 31-25 halftime margin, which was boosted to 52-43 after the third quarter. But Monroe almost upset the victory wagon in the waning minutes.

In the reserve match Monroe overwhelmed Kingston, 39-16.

Los Angeles Open Remains Wide Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 36th chapter of the Los Angeles Open reached the showdown stage today with a wide open struggle in prospect for the winning share of the $45,000 purse.

Three previously unheralded professional golfers dominated the picture for the final 18 holes and the $7,500 top money.

They were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and cocky young Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif. — deadlocked for the lead with 54-hole scores of 206 — and hefty Lionel Hebert, former national PGA champion and brother of Jay, another ex-PGA king.

Lionel was one stroke back of the co-leaders.

Alone at 208 was formidable Bob Goaly, winner of the 1961 Los Angeles Open and the leader this year through the first two rounds.

Further back and virtually out of the winner's circle were such name players as U.S. Open champion Gene Littler (212), and the big money winners in golf last year, Arnold Palmer (214) and Gary Player (217).

Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, was well down in the standings with a third-round total of 71-68-75-214.

Still finding the professional tournament jungle a rough place was 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus, who relinquished his national amateur crown for a crack at the pay-for-money ranks.

Nicklaus, while not discouraged, made the final 18 holes with scores of 74-70-72-216. It took 218 to qualify for today's final round.

Tournament officials announced there would be a sudden death playoff in the event of a tie.

Bases Full won the Rancocas Stakes at Garden State Park in Camden, N. Y., in 1959. In 1961, Batter Up was the winner.

Wildcats Down Shawnee Five

Laurelville pushed its 1961 cage record to 8-4 Saturday night with a 62-52 victory over Shawnee.

For Laurelville, the Young brothers — Max and John — hit more than half of the Wildcat total. Max hit for 20 and John for 13.

Laurelville had only a four-point lead at the end of the third quarter. A full court man-to-man press seemed to rattle Shawnee in the last quarter, though, as they tossed the game out the door to the more relaxed Wildcats.

A superb job was turned in by Whisler as he pulled down 16 rebounds from the boards in addition to his 9 points.

SPENCER with 22 points and Arkley with 14, were the only two Shawnee players to pose much of a threat as the Wildcats continued their winning ways.

Shawnee did manage a split for the evening by winning the reserve tilt, 44-36.

Pro Grid League Expansion Talked

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Owners of the American Football League were reported expansion minded for the future but not for the present as they gathered for their annual meeting today.

Adding other cities to the league's present eight teams was expected to be discussed as a matter that might be brought about in a couple of years. Such cities as Seattle, Portland, Ore., Cincinnati, Atlanta and Nashville have been mentioned as prospects.

The owners also are expected to discuss, without immediate action, the high prices being paid to outstanding college stars in draft competition with the National Football League.

The 59th annual ABC bowling championships will be held in Des Moines from Feb. 17 through April 22.

Booster Club Meet To Eye Sports Plan

Officers and directors of the Circleville High School Booster Club will meet 8 p. m. Tuesday in the basement of Benny's Restaurant for a continued discussion on proposals for increased athletic facilities here.

A special committee already has investigated possibilities for a new football stadium and corresponding track and baseball facilities at the new Nicholas Drive Elementary School location.

Booster Eugene Hanson and members of his committee have obtained plans and estimated costs for the proposed project. Additional data will be presented at the Tuesday meeting.

Booster members have long considered the present football field at the high school inadequate for regular competition. Track facilities at CHS are not sufficient for meets and the school has no baseball field.

The local club urged all officials of the organization to attend tomorrow's meeting for a review of progress which has been made on the project during the last several months.

The 1962 New York Thoroughbred racing season will have 112 stakes races. The first one will be The Swift, set for opening day, March 20, at Aqueduct.

Middleweight Ring Battles Booked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This is opportunity week for Johnny Tucker of New York and Jim Ellis of Louisville, a couple of promising but virtually unknown middleweights.

They get a chance to shine because there won't be any national television fight this Saturday and none of the top fighters will be in action.

Tucker, an undefeated six-footer, meets Johnny Alford of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. He outpointed Alford in a six-round bout last Nov. 18.

Ellis faces veteran Rory Calhoun, onetime middleweight contender from New York, in a 10-round feature bout at Louisville's Jefferson County Armory Thursday.

The Broncos rode roughshod over powerful Madison South in the Ashville gym, blasting along after a slow first quarter to thrash the visitors 65-45.

Coach Russ Gregg's varsity cagers, in running their unblemished ledger to 9-0, held only 9-4 advantage at the close of the opening period. But the Broncos began to roll then, racing to a 29-13 half-time lead behind the shooting of Tom and Jim Rathburn and Dan Hollenback.

Ashville added 20 more counters in the third stanza to jump to a 49-27 advantage going into the final eight minutes. Madison South, led by Renick with 12 markers, poured through 18 points in the last period in a comeback try, but it was too little, too late.

TOM RATHBURN showed the way for the all-victorious Broncos with 17 tallies on seven field goals and three foul shots. Jim Rathburn hit 14 and Dan Hollenback picked up 12. Dick Hollenback plunked through nine, seven of them at the charity stripe. Sonny Roof worked over the nets for 13 counters.

Madison South split the evening's spoils with a 44-29 win in the reserve test.

Bulldogs Bite Aces, 54-46

Centralia's Bulldogs picked up the marbles where it counted—at the end—to wipe out a mid-game Amanda-Clearcreek lead and take a 54-46 victory, their eighth in 13 outings.

Man of the moment in the Ross County's win was Monte Hinton who notched 26 points during the game, 12 of them in the critical last quarter on eight free throws and two foul shots. In all Hinton collected 12 charity tosses and seven buckets.

Floyd Edler contributed 12 markers to the victory drive. Centralia led, 10-4, after a show first period but fell behind, 16-13, at the half. Amanda stayed in front, 37-31, after three stanzas, but the Bulldogs suddenly spurred for 23 markers and the win in the final eight minutes.

The loss was the Aces second in nine matches. Gary Young paced the losing effort with 15 counters on seven field goals and one foul success. Jim Anderson had 10.

In the reserve bout, the Aces sweated out 29-27 decision over Centralia.

Scioto handed Walnut its ninth loss in 10 tries Saturday night, dropping the Tigers 58-35 as Bob Whiteside poured through 20 points and Murphy chipped in 16.

The Tigers held a 12-11 advantage after the opening quarter but slipped behind, 30-19, by halftime. Scioto was held to eight markers in the third frame but still led, 38-29 going into the last stanza.

Larry Leist capped the Walnut point production with 17 tallies. In the reserve preliminary, Walnut thumped Scioto 52-39.

OSU, Mississippi State Top Major Undefeated List

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio State and Mississippi State ruled the roost today as the only two undefeated major college basketball teams in the country—but there may be trouble ahead for the Bulldogs from the Southeastern Conference.

Ohio State (11-0) has only one game on tap this week, against Michigan on Saturday. Mississippi State (10-0), the defending Southeastern champions, entertains Alabama Tuesday night and that should be no problem.

But on Saturday, State runs up against Vanderbilt on the Commodores' court and that's giving Coach Babe McCarthy and his crew some uneasy moments.

Vandy has only a 6-5 record, but around the conference Mississippi State is known as a pretty soft touch for the northern division teams in their own lair. Vanderbilt is in the northern division and, despite its mediocre record, has hopes of winning the title.

The Bulldogs, a tight defensive outfit, polished off Auburn, 51-48, Saturday night for No. 10, while Ohio State, No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll, opened defense of its Big Ten title by sailing past Northwestern, 85-62.

Dietzel Eager For Job at West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Paul Dietzel is a man with a mission and he is eager to get started.

The 37-year-old Ohioan gave up the promise of continued success and security at Louisiana State University to accept the challenge of the job he always has wanted—head football coach at Army.

There is little doubt the broad-shouldered young coach is approaching this new job with zeal and confidence, touched with considerable boyish enthusiasm.

At LSU, Dietzel left a wealth of talent, a lucrative job and some bitter feelings. His $18,500-a-year contract still had four years to run and more was offered. When reports cropped up he wanted out, there was vehement criticism. After much sound and fury, the LSU Board of Supervisors granted his release in a meeting Friday. His salary at Army presumably will be $18,500, with a 5-year contract.

In seven seasons at LSU, Dietzel's Tiger teams won 44, lost 23, tied 3 and had a 2-1 mark in bowl games. His 1958 squad was national champion with a 10-0 record and he was Coach of the Year. LSU was 9-1 in 1959 and again this past season, and his final with the Tigers was their 25-7 victory over Colorado in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day.

At Army, Dietzel succeeds Dale Hall, who was dismissed after three seasons on Dec. 9. In three tries, Hall's teams failed to beat Navy—and Navy's recent superiority has rankled Army deeply.

Monroe Nipped By Kingston

Kingston, carrying a slim lead most of the way, held out despite a stiff Monroe challenge to claim a 59-58 decision Saturday night.

Hammond paced the winners with 22 counters on nine field goals and four foul shots. Lauerma hit 12 to back him up. Jeff Bigam topped the Indians with 20 tallies on four baskets and a booming 12 charity tosses. Diltz hit 10 and Hunt had 11.

The winning Redskins carried a 31-25 halftime margin, which was boosted to 52-43 after the third quarter. But Monroe almost upset the victory wagon in the waning minutes.

In the reserve match Monroe overwhelmed Kingston, 39-76.

Los Angeles Open Remains Wide Open

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 36th chapter of the Los Angeles Open reached the showdown stage today with a wide open struggle in prospect for the winning share of the $45,000 purse.

Three previously unheralded professional golfers dominated the picture for the final 18 holes and the $7,500 top money.

They were Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., and cocky young Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif.,—deadlocked for the lead with 54-hole scores of 206— and hefty Lionel Hebert, former national PGA champion and brother of Jay, another ex-PGA king.

Lionel was one stroke back of the co-leaders.
Alone at 208 was formidable Bob Goaly, winner of the 1961 Los Angeles Open and the leader this year through the first two rounds.

Further back and virtually out of the winner's circle were such name players as U.S. Open champion Gene Littler (212), and the big money winners in golf last year, Arnold Palmer (214) and Gary Player (217).

Dow Finsterwald of Athens, Ohio, was well down in the standings with a third-round total of 71-68-75—214.

Still finding the professional tournament jungle a rough place was 21-year-old Jack Nicklaus, who relinquished his national amateur crown for a crack at the play-for-money ranks.

Nicklaus, while not discouraged, made the final 18 holes with scores of 74-70-72—216. It took 218 to qualify for today's final round.

Tournament officials announced there would be a sudden death playoff in the event of a tie.

Bases Full won the Rancocas Stakes at Garden State Park in Camden, N. Y., in 1959. In 1961, Batter Up was the winner.

Harry (Mike) Link will captain Notre Dame's 1962 football team. He's a fullback from Chicago.

Pro Grid League Expansion Talked
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Owners of the American Football League were reported expansion minded for the future but not for the present as they gathered for their annual meeting today.
Adding other cities to the league's present eight teams was expected to be discussed as a matter that might be brought about in a couple of years. Such cities as Seattle, Portland, Ore., Cincinnati, Atlanta and Nashville have been mentioned as prospects.
The owners also are expected to discuss, without immediate action, the high prices being paid to outstanding college stars in draft competition with the National Football League.
The 59th annual ABC bowling championships will be held in Des Moines from Feb. 17 through April 22.

Booster Club Meet To Eye Sports Plan

Officers and directors of the Circleville High School Booster Club will meet 8 p. m. Tuesday in the basement of Benny's Restaurant for a continued discussion on proposals for increased athletic facilities here.

A special committee already has investigated possibilities for a new football stadium and corresponding track and baseball facilities at the new Nicholas Drive Elementary School location.

Booster Eugene Hanson and members of his committee have obtained plans and estimated costs for the proposed project. Additional data will be presented at the Tuesday meeting.

Booster members have long considered the present football field at the high school inadequate for regular competition. Track facilities at CHS are not sufficient for meets and the school has no baseball field.

The local club urged all officials of the organization to attend tomorrow's meeting for a review of progress which has been made on the project during the last several months.

The 1962 New York Thoroughbred racing season will have 112 stakes races. The first one will be The Swift, set for opening day, March 20, at Aqueduct.

Middleweight Ring Battles Booked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
This is opportunity week for Johnny Tucker of New York and Jim Ellis of Louisville, a couple of promising but virtually unknown middleweights.

They get a chance to shine because there won't be any national television fight this Saturday and none of the top fighters will be in action.

Tucker, an undefeated six-footer, meets Johnny Alford of Philadelphia in a 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena tonight. He outpointed Alford in a six-round bout last Nov. 18.

Ellis faces veteran Rory Calhoun, onetime middleweight contender from New York, in a 10-round feature bout at Louisville's Jefferson County Armory Thursday.

COMPARISON OF MANNED SPACECRAFT
PROJECT MERCURY

PROJECT GEMINI

TWO-SEATER EARTHABOUT—Here is a comparison between the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's new Project Gemini two-seater capsule, and the Project Mercury capsule. The Gemini, for docking with another vehicle in Earth orbit, is to be made by McDonnell Aircraft and be ready for flight tests in the 1963-64 period. It will have 50 per cent greater volume than the Mercury, weigh two or three times that. The name Gemini comes from a constellation whose two brightest stars, Castor and Pollux, were worshipped by the ancient Romans as the gods of travel.

Space-Age Optics
Do Many Things

The Moon, as it was recently photographed by a recording optical tracking instrument based at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

By GROVER BRINKMAN
Central Press Association
Correspondent
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Imagine a man standing atop a New York skyscraper, photographing a golf ball in flight in Chicago! Real crazy man! But it's happening, figuratively at least. The United States space-age cameras are sensitive to an amazing degree. One could, for instance, photograph a baseball eight miles away — and count the stitches!

It is now possible to measure the invisible light given off by stars that are a million times more distant than the sun!
And even more incredible are other instruments, now developed, or in the process of development, to support America's space exploration program.
Most people think of optical instruments as big magnifying glasses. Actually, the devices do many jobs besides magnification.
For example, here at Cape Canaveral, a "golf ball camera" is used to photograph missiles as they rocket down the Atlantic missile range. But an auxiliary instrument which is part of this telescopic camera simultaneously analyzes the gas trails of the missiles.
You watch the tailpipe of your car, and check its telltale smoke to check the motor. The gas trails from the missiles tell our engineers a great deal about how the rocket engines are performing in flight.
The main lens in one of these rocket-tracking cameras is only 24 inches across, yet it has the power to "see" the rocket at great distances.
This "seeing" saves the taxpayer money. In a recent typical case, a rocket's second stage ignited before the first stage had separated, pointing immediately to a required adjustment.
When connected to electronic circuits, optical instruments can see things invisible to the human eye, such as infra-red and ultra-violet light. In the near future, optical instruments in the nose of a rocket high in space will be able to actually measure the amount of invisible ultra-violet light given off by stars.
U. S. eminence in fine optical lens has long been an established fact. No ordinary craftsmen are the men who can cut, grind and polish tiny pieces or huge slabs of very hard materials into intricate lens and mirror configurations. The skills in their fingertips represent generations of accumulated knowledge which began in western Europe in the 1530s.
Today, many optical-electronic breakthroughs are being chalked up. For example, an optical instrument has now been designed to "see" the surface of Mars and help answer an age-old question: "Is there life on this planet?"
Part of a space vehicle the U. S. plans to orbit near Mars, the instrument will collect and analyze invisible infra-red radiation from Mars' surface. The resulting readings compared with readings taken on the earth will tell whether or not trees, grass or other forms of vegetable life as we know them presently exist on Mars.

The Samos, Midas and Tiro satellites provide additional evidence of U. S. electronic-optical skill. The Samos satellite will be capable of aerial reconnaissance and photography; the Midas uses infra-red sensing equipment to detect exhaust flames of an enemy missile within seconds after it is launched. The Tiro weather observation satellites carry cameras that transmit photos of the world's cloud cover back to earth.

Already the accomplishment of space-age optics is little short of amazing. And we are just starting!
The unsung heroes in this giant program of space exploration are the men who will look at the unknown, with the aid of fine optics, before man himself takes to space en masse.
They are the men dedicated to the making of a lens. The skill is so demanding they live in a world of their own making. They are the men who hold the fate of the space age in their hands.

Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons, the grand old man of racing, trains horses for three generations of the Phipps family — Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps, son Ogden Phipps and grandson Ogden Mills Phipps.

John Galbreath, Ohio breeder and owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has nominated seven colts for the Sapling to be run at Monmouth Park next summer.

Gene Sarazen's new "World of Golf" kicked off on CBS, following the rigid pattern that makes all filmed golf shows exactly alike. That means descriptions and diagrams of tough holes and a shot-by-shot description of the more interesting ones in a match. Apparently golf bugs like it that way.

NBC plans to do a series of weekly half-hour shows on Federal Communication Commission hearings on the state of television programming. The hearings start Jan. 23 and among the star witnesses for the defense of TV will be NBC boss, Robert Sarnoff, as well as heads of the other two major networks.

Ohio Shotgun Artists Win Honor Ratings

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Four Ohioans were named today to the 1962 Sports Afield All-American veterans' trapshooting team picked by Jimmy Robinson, the magazine's shotgun editor.

Heading the list was Fred Harlow, the 84-year-old crackshot from Newark who broke 196 of 200 to take the national Class D championship at last August's Grand American.

Harlow won the Grand American Handicap, the clay target sport's biggest prize, back in 1908. In 1916 his .9771 average on 2,000 targets was the best ever made up to that time.

Also on the team, made up of shooters who have reached the 70-year mark, were Fred Hansen of Cleveland, who broke 100 straight to take the national veterans' crown at the "roaring Grand;" Van Marker of Versailles, who teamed with his wife for a record 200 straight at the Vandalia classic, and Ed Coblentz of New Madison. Harlow is the oldest man on the team.

Non-Ohiolans on the All-American squad were Homer Clark, Alton, Ill.; Ben Higginson, Newburgh, N.Y.; Jimmy Girgulis, Saskatoon, Sask.; Henry Decker, Vincennes, Ind.; Chuck Hinkley, Aurora, Ill.; Bill Middleton, Sterling, Ill.; Adolph Nelson and Fred Ford of Detroit, Mich. and Steve Crothers of Chestnut Hill, Pa.

Pint-Size Gridder Ignored by Pros

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's not very often that the professional football scouts miss a good prospect, but may be they would do well today to re-examine the case of Galen Hall.

Hall, a balding senior at Penn State, stands only 5-feet-9 and weighs 190. Standing behind a mountainous pro line, or facing incoming pro linemen poses a problem for a man of his dimension, so no one in either the American or National Football League drafted him.

Size meant nothing Sunday when Hall passed for three touchdowns in leading a group of the NFL's Western Conference draftees to a 33-19 victory over some chosen by the Eastern Conference in the U.S. bowl.

The pros made no mistakes in picking Kansas' John Hadl or Ohio State's All-American fullback Bob Ferguson. Hadl passed for his team's only touchdown as a group of West All-Stars played a game of East All-Stars to a 7-7 tie in Honolulu. Ferguson's spectacular 72-yard run got the East's only score.

The AFL's Western Division stars won that loop's first Pro Bowl, trouncing the Eastern Division 47-27 behind the passing of quarterback Cotton Davidson of the Dallas Cowboys, and the running of Abner Haynes, his Texan teammate.

Hall, who led Penn State to a Gator Bowl victory over Georgia Tech, passed 44 yards to Bobby Lee Thompson of Arizona, 16 to Steve Stonebraker of Detroit and 4 to Boston U's Karl Kaimier. He completed 28 of 49 passes for 338 yards, more than the East was able to gain over-all.

Navy's Greg Mather, a low draft choice of the New York Giants, kicked field goals of 40 and 41 yards for the losers. Leroy Jackson of Southern Illinois and Bobby Jackson of New Mexico State also scored for the East.

Miami's Jim Vollenweider also tallied twice for the West, once on a 2-yard plunge and on a fumble recovery in the end zone when Thompson fumbled Hall's pass for an apparent TD.

After the day's only touchdowns were scored within a 2½ minute span of the first period in Honolulu, sloppy play became the order of the day. A total of 10 passes were intercepted, three on quarterback Roman Gabriel of the East.

Hadl's TD pass came off a fake field goal by UCLA's Bobby Smith, and three plays later Ferguson ran for the East's score. Lance Alworth, like Hadl heading for San Diego of the AFL, was chosen the game's most valuable back.

Davidson came off the bench and threw three touchdowns passes for coach Sid Gillman's All-Stars, and Haynes ran for two more, one of 66 yards. George Blanda threw a pair of TD passes for the East stars, and New York's Al Dorow added another.

Daytonian Stars In Swim Tourney

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) —A Dayton girl and two University of Cincinnati swim stars led their teams to championships in the three-day Ohio AAU Swimming and Diving Championships held here over the weekend.

June Cunningham won four events—setting records in three of them—and was on two winning relay teams as she led the Dayton Dolphins to a lopsided victory in the women's division.

Miss Cunningham won the 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard free-style, 200-yard individual medley and the 200-yard backstroke.

The University of Cincinnati variety and freshmen swim teams splashed away with first and second places respectively in the men's competition.

The American Bowling Congress has more than four million members.

Best Chicago racing crowd of 1961 turned out at Arlington Park on Labor Day when 36,531 improvers of the breed showed up.

Aliens To Report Addresses at PO

Thomas M. Pederson, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, today urged all aliens in this area who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before Jan. 31 at the local post office.

The Immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their addresses to the Government each January.

Forms for the annual report for aliens are available at the post office. Non-citizens who are ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the form for him, and return it to the office after it has been completed.

Price Support Deadline Slated

Deadline for obtaining price support on most 1961 crop grains and related crops will be Jan. 31, J. Austin Dowden, office manager of the Pickaway Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced today.

That is the official closing date for price support on barley, oats, rye, soybeans and wheat, Dowden said.

Antique Model Toy Cars Make Big Hit with Most Fathers

By Central Press Association

CHICAGO — Late autumn turns a young man's fancy to thoughts of the brand-new cars rolling off Detroit assembly lines.

Each day's news columns carry the latest word from the Michigan manufacturers, touting body style and engine change, smoother rides and power plus.

And the public awaits its dream machine: a true classic car. A unique combination of novelty and outright quality, seasoned with just a touch of luck, go into the creation of a classic auto.

Lincoln did the trick with its pre-war Continental. The short-lived Cord still captures the fancy of car buffs everywhere. England's MG Model-TC warms the collective heart of the sports car set. Ford, with both the Model-T and Model-A, has produced its share of classics. The Stutz Bearcat, the Stanley Steamer; the 1906 Cadillac; the list of classics is long and varied.

Meanwhile, all eyes are on the auto pages. The new 1962s are here.

And hot on the heels of the auto makers come the toy makers with tiny replicas of the new cars — complete in every detail.

Many of the new toy cars are introduced the day their kingsize cousins hit the showrooms. Others are on the way within weeks.

The alliance between the auto builders and the toy builders dates back to 1914, when a Chicago die-casting firm adapted the revolutionary assembly-line method to the manufacture of toy cars.

The firm produced a Model-T Ford that fit in the palm of your hand.

Sales of Henry Ford's Model-T hit 15 million. Sales of the Tootsie-toy Model-T reached 50 million and still are going strong.

Spurred by the craze for classic cars, the manufacturers have reintroduced miniatures of some of the world's best loved antique autos. The kiddies may think they're quaint, but pop probably will remember some with a bit of nostalgia.

Addison Reese, great-grandson of John T. Ford, the Ford Theater's Civil War owner, has given the sofa that stood in Lincoln's box in the theater and a George Washington engraving used for decoration.

ATLANTA (AP) — Drive up and pay up is what lucky Atlanta motorists do for simple traffic violations.

They can pay their fines without getting out of their cars — but they usually complain just the same.

Most offenders who appear before a judge are armed with excuses for their actions. A traffic court judge may pay them some attention, but the drive-in window at the Traffic Violations Bureau pays no heed at all to excuses.

"We're here only to accept fines for simple traffic violations," said W. P. Walker, director of the bureau. "And some 200 to 250 cars a day drive up and pay on violations ranging from speeding — if not in excess of 20 miles over the limit — to red light running and other such violations.

"We were actually set up to handle parking tickets only, but as long as the violation is simple, and people drive up to pay, we usually find it expedient to handle all simple cases in which no accident is involved. We've used the drive-in-window successfully since August 1956.

"Of course it does no good to try to talk the cashier out of a fine," said Walker, "but many violators try."

"My steering wheel was wobbly," a man once told cashier Pat Mitchell. "I was on my way to church and I was late," is an old favorite, said Miss Mitchell, or, "My footfeed stuck."

Any complaints? Only children, Miss Mitchell said. "They think it's a drive-in bank and want lollipops from us after their parents have paid their fines."

HAIR APPARENT—Five Miami, Fla., models, blonde, brunette, redhead, brownette and strawberry blonde, display a new hairstyle for spring. They are wearing a close-cropped coiffure that features snug cover for the ears, showing just the tip of the lobe, and modified bouffance at the crown. Wisps of hair can be drawn over the brow for individuality.

QUESTION: Why are tobacco and alcohol bad for athletes?

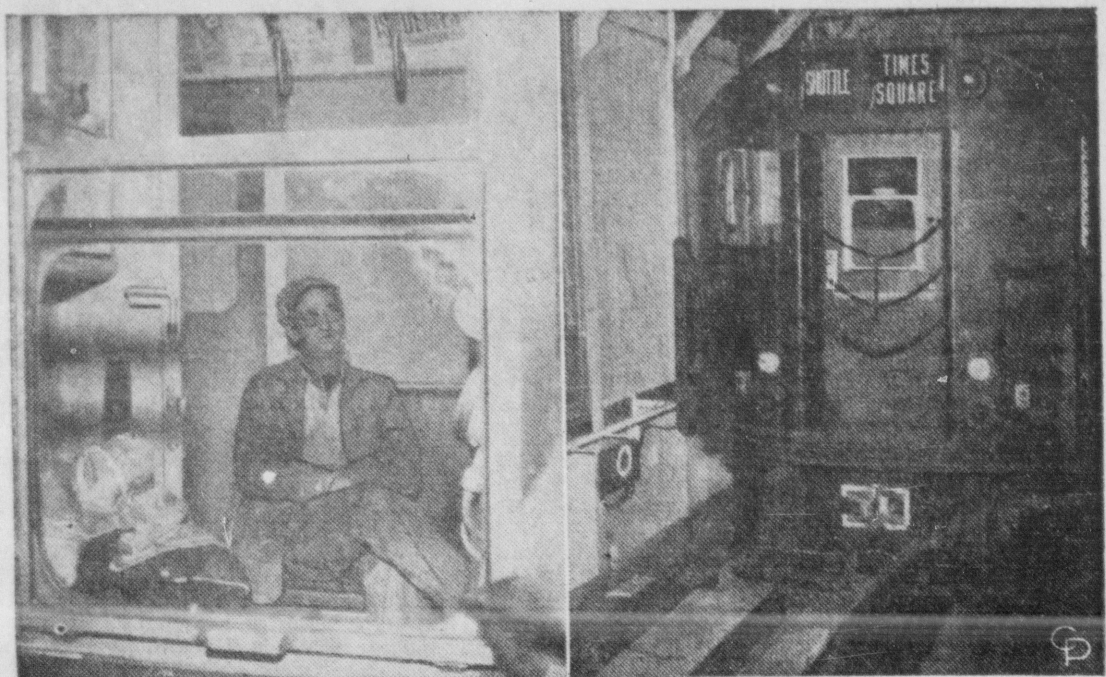

ANSWER: Carbon monoxide in the smoke "fixes" some of your red blood cells so they cannot carry oxygen. Smoking then obviously "winds" the athlete. Smoking also makes the heart beat faster as much as 20 extra beats per minute with one cigarette. Smoking also promotes thickening of the artery walls with a consequent rise in blood pressure. This makes the heart work much harder and predisposes tobacco addicts to strokes of apoplexy and coronary attacks.

QUESTION: What are the factors that influence the coming of coronary heart disease in man?

ANSWER: They are heredity, overweight, elevated serum cholesterol, increased diastolic blood pressure, heavy cigarette smoking, and lack of exercise. The latter five can be influenced by the patient.

Wright New Lt. Governor of Key Club

During an enthusiastic Key Club meet at Lancaster High School Sunday, Edward Wright, Circleville High School Key Clubber, was elected to the Lt. Governor's post of the new Division 10 West.

A group of twelve boys along with their advisor, Stanley Spring, boosted Wright to Key Club fame by the use of printed literature, wall signs, hand placards and word-of-mouth. Their theme, "You Can't Go Wrong With Wright," caught the fancy of the schools present.

The meeting, presided over by 10th Division Lt. Governor Bill McCleery of Lancaster High School, was necessary because of the split in the old 10th Division. This division, embracing many schools, had grown along with the Kiwanis 10th Division.

McCleery will head the 10 East and Wright will govern the school Key Clubs in the newly formed 10 West Division.

GOVERNOR Wright has attended State Conventions and last summer represented Circleville High School, along with several other local youth, at the Philadelphia, Pa., International Key Club Convention. He is looking forward to the 1962 convention which will be held at Long Beach, Calif. Wright, 16, is presently the secretary of

Reports of Jailbreak Are Checked in Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Reports of a pending jailbreak at the Summit County Jail resulted Sunday night in the shutdown of about 20 prisoners and an inspection of their cells by sheriff's deputies.

Lt. Sam Andrews, a deputy sheriff, said nothing was found to indicate any such attempt was planned. He said one prisoner reportedly dropped notes to his wife, who was to have supplied him with a saw blade through a jail window. He said five alleged ringleaders were separated from the other prisoners.

KATANGA 'FRONT'—Michel Struelens, the Belgian who heads the Katanga Information Service in New York, looks a bit nonplussed in his Fifth Avenue office as the U.S. State Department says he is "involved in an attempt to purchase recognition of Katanga as a sovereign nation." It is reported that he offered Costa Rica $1 million to recognize the breakaway Elisabethville government.

Aliens To Report Addresses at PO

Thomas M. Pederson, District Director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, today urged all aliens in this area who have not yet filled out alien address report forms, to do so before Jan. 31 at the local post office.

The Immigration official pointed out that the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations, and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their addresses to the Government each January.
